Pa. State Grange Prepares To Tackle Issues

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The Pennsylvania State Grange on Monday presented some of its concerns that are to be debated for possible policy adoption by its delegate body at its upcoming state convention, Oct. 24-28 in Meadville.

In a recent first for the organization, the general and agricultural press were invited to listen to the Pa. State Grange commitee and subcommittee chairpeople present some of its concerns and issues of concern from which policy may be developed.

The event was topical, especially since the state Legislature reconvened session this week, and is expected to be active until taking a break prior to Nov. 3 elections, and then reconvening later.

After a welcome by State Grange Master William Steel, and informal time allowed for discussion, Grange Legislative Director Brenda Shambaugh explained the Grange's policy development process.

The National Grange is a national organization of state organizations. Each state organization is comprised of county level organizations called the "Pomona" Granges.

Counties can have several to none subordinate, or local, Granges.

Members present issues of concern and potential policy statements or positions to local Granges, which are discussed and may be forwarded to the county level, where they can be amended or condensed with similar statements from other local Granges.

From the county Granges, the state organization subcommittees review the submitted potential policy statements, again revising if necessary to provide a policy that reflects the desires of members.

Those policy proposals are then debated and voted upon by the state Grange delegates during its annual convention.

State policy that is developed is then forwarded to the National Grange, where a similar process occurs through the national delegates at the national convention.

Duroc Breed Has Both Supremes At York Fair Show

YORK (York Co.) — The supreme champions at the 1998 York Fair open swine breeding show came from the Duroc Breed. Rodger Bankert, Hanover, had the grand champion Duroc boar that went on to be the supreme champion boar of the show.

Ray Rodgers, Columbia, had the grand champion sow that was later named supereme champion sow of the show.

Other champion winners in the Duroc breed are Rodger Bankert, reserve champion boar and reserve champion sow.

In the Hampshire breed, Matt Trostle, Red Lion had the champion boar and the champion sow. Donna & JC Strawbridge, Whitehall, had the reserve champion boar and reserve champion sow.

In the Poland show, Cheryl Bennecoff, Kutztown, had all four champions.

In the Spotted show, Larry Robinson, Delta, had both the champion boar and the champion sow. Michael & Gene Weber, Shrewsbury, had both the reserve champion boar and the reserve champion sow.

In the Yorkshire show, Donna & JC Strawbridge had the grand and reserve grand champion boars. Allen Cornbower, New Freedom had both the grand and reserve champion sows.

Seven National Championships Decided At Pennsylvania Horse Show

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) – The Pennsylvania National Horse Show set for October 8 to 17 at the state farm show arena is not only the country's largest multi-breed indoor horse show, it is also the setting for the country's fiercest equestrian competition, as seven coveted national titles will be decided there.

One of only three USA Junior Olympics-Equestrian events, and the only to be held east of the Mississippi, is the American Horse shows Association/Black Entertainment Television National Junior Jumper Championship. Teams of the top four riders under age 18 from each zone, or region, of the US, compete over jumps for Junior Olympic gold, silver, and bronze medals on Saturday night, October 10. The rivalry is especially fierce between traditional contenders Zone 10, which includes California and Nevada, and the hometown favorite Zone

Corn Talk Next Week

Next week Lancaster Farming will publish the fall issue of Corn Talk, the newsletter of the Pennsylvania Master Corn Growers Association (PMCGA). The Oct. 10 issue will feature an interview with the first president of the PMCGA, information about Bt corn test plots, work on corn's optimum field population rate, results on the latest studies on narrow-row corn, and other items of interest to the grower. Also scheduled are comments from the PMCGA and advertising messages.

Elsie Wolff Receives All-American Image Award

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) – After a great day in the show ring, Elsie Wolff sat down to enjoy the All-American buffet held as part of the dairy show, but soon she was on stage accepting the Pennsylvania All-American dairy show's 1998 image award. The image award is given to someone who is a leader and promoter of the All-American dairy show and the overall dairy industry.

Elsie Wolff certainly works above and beyond the award criteria. Growing up on her family's Guernsey farm gave Elsie her foundation in what has become a lifelong dedication to the Guernsey industry. She has served as secretary of the Pennsylvania Guernsey Breeders Association since 1980.

She said, "I haven't been with the show for all 35 years, only 33 years." Her work for the good of the All-American show has led to higher quality competition, better lighting, an improved microphone system and she is continually looking for new exhibitors to expand the show and increase competition.

Her awards include numerous All-American awards, All-Pennsylvania awards and she is a member of the American Guernsey Cattle Club. She has

SEPTEMBER 30, 1998
DELMARVA BROILER/FRYER MARKET. FEDERAL-STATE

Movement of ready-to-cook whole birds was light and unaggressive. Seller offerings remained readily available and were slow in clearing on the 3 pound and heavier sizes; lighter weights were in fairly good balance. Live supplies were mostly moderate; weights were desirable to heavy. Processing schedules were moderate to heavy. Less than truckiot asking prices were unchanged at 62 to 76 cents. Trade sentiment was weak. In the parts complex breast items were in excess and difficult to place. Leg items were fully sufficient for current inquiry. Wings were available and competitively priced to stimulate buyers interest.

NE Chicken Parts 1&2

ATLANTA, GA.
SEPTEMBER 30, 1998

NORTHEAST BROILER/FRYER PARTS - PART I FEDERAL-STATE

Trucklot buying activity was limited. Boneless skinless and bone in breast were in excess and supplies were difficult to place. Leg items were fully adequate to ample, but the bulk of offerings were noted as clearing satisfactorily. Wings were fully adequate to ample with machine cuts competitively priced in an effort to stimulate additional activity.

Retail and distributive movement was sluggish and buyers held receipts to bare necessities. The market tone was weak on breast items and wings, about steady-on the leg cuts.

PRICES PAID PER POUND, ICE PACKED AND CO2 PACKED BROILER/FRYER PARTS, DELIVERED TO FIRST RECEIVERS IN POOL TRUCKLOT AND TRUCKLOT QUANTITIES.

ATLANTA, GA.
SEPTEMBER 25, 1998

EASTERN REGION FROZEN EGGS, SEPTEMBER 25, 1998. FEDERAL-STATE

Prices were higher for whole and whites. Yolk price ranges were generally unchanged, but the majority of trading occurred higher in the ranges. Demand was fair to instances fairly good, mostly moderate. Supplies remained adequate. Liquid and frozen eggs processed (ingredients included) under federal inspection in the Eastern region for the week ending September 19, 1998 were 1% higher than last week, and unchanged from the same week last year. Shell egg supplies were adequate when plants used light sizes, and the undertone was steady; liquid offerings were tight to adequate with whites still in the tightest position.

DAILY NATIONAL GRAIN SUMMARY

Grain and soybean trade was slow today and bids mostly lower. Wheat mixed. Corn 2 to 6 cents lower. Sorghum 5 cents lower. Soybeans 6 to 19 cents lower. Good overnight export wheat sales offered some strength to bids. How- ever, beneficial rains in hard red winter wheat growing areas limited gains, despite the slowdown in winter wheat planting. Corn bids continued to decline due to lack of fresh export sales this week, rapid harvest progress, and very good yields. Rainfall in the Midwest slowed harvest in some areas this week. Traders expected USDA to lower their carryover estimate in today's stock report but figures remained within 25 million bushels. Taiwan bought a substantial amount of soybeans overnight.

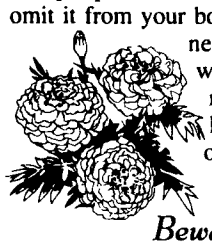
The OLD FARMER'S THIS WEEK WITH ALMANAC

OCTOBER.5-11, 1998

FULL HARVEST MOON, OCT. 5.

BRIDE OF THE SUN

October's flower, the daisy-like marigold (Tagetes), has been called Mary's gold and bride of the sun. Its yellows, rusts, and golds echo fall's natural colors. Although it can tolerate cool temperatures, it won't stand for freezing. The malodorous annual is useful in borders to repel pests. For the same reason, you may choose to omit it from your bouquets, unless you have one of the newer, odorless varieties. Marigolds were once a source for toothache remedies. Today its cousin, calendula, is used in skin creams. A dream of marigolds indicates happiness in marriage, prosperity, and success.



Beware of floral arrangements; they lead to marital estrangements.

– Ogden Nash

salt, to taste
1/2 cup flour (approximately)

Preheat oven to 400° F. Boil and mash the potatoes, making sure they are free of lumps. Add the milk, butter, and salt. Add just enough flour to make a soft dough, then lay it on a floured board and roll out quickly and lightly to a half-inch sheet. Cut into rounds; bake about 10 minutes, or until just crisp on the outside. Butter and eat before they fall.

Makes 12 to 18 biscuits.

The OLD FARMER'S WEATHER PROVERBS

As the weather in October, so it will be the next March.

Friday is the best or worst day of the week.

When ropes are difficult to untwist, expect bad weather.

When in cold weather the soot falls from the chimney, the weather will change.

OPINION

A Farmer's Creed

I believe a man's greatest possession is his dignity and that no calling bestows this more abundantly than farming.

I believe hard work and honest sweat are the building blocks of a person's character.

I believe that farming, despite its hardships and disappointments, is the most honest and honorable way a man can spend his days on this earth.

I believe farming nurtures the close family ties that make life rich in ways money can't buy.

I believe my children are learning values that will last a lifetime and can be learned in no other way.

I believe farming provides education for life and that no other occupation teaches so much about birth, growth, and maturity in such a variety of ways.

I believe many of the best things in life are indeed free; The splendor of a sunrise, the rapture of wide open spaces, the exhilarating sight of your land greening each spring.

I believe that true happiness comes from watching your crops ripen in the field, your children grow tall in the sun, your whole family feel the pride that springs from their shared experience.

I believe that by my toil I am giving more to the world than I am taking from it, an honor that does not come to all men.

I believe my life will be measured ultimately by what I have done for my fellowman, and by this standard, I fear no judgment.

I believe when a man grows old and sums up his days he should be able to stand tall and feel pride in the life he's lived.

I believe in farming because it makes all this possible.

Now Is The Time

By John Schwartz

Lancaster County Agricultural Agent

To Implement Nutrient Management

October 1, 1998 marks the implementation of Pennsylvania Nutrient Management Law. All concentrated animal operations (CAO) are required to file nutrient management plans with their county conservation district.

Recently USDA and EPA release its strategy for animal feeding operations. Agricultural leaders have been successful in including voluntary participation as important components of these government programs

Nutrient management plans are the basis of these programs. The amount of government regulations will depend on farmer participation. Farmers need to develop and implement nutrient management plans. A recent report from the Susquehanna River Basin Commission, shows nitrogen, phosphorus and sediment concentrations have significantly decreased during the period 1985 to 1997.

Voluntary nutrient management plans have played a major role in this decrease. By having all farmers implementing nutrient management plans, we will be increasing public support of agriculture and reduce government regulations while improving the environment and water quality. Now is the time to implement your nutrient management plan.

To Pick Up Farm Show Lists

The 1999 Pennsylvania State Farm Show Premium Lists have arrived at your county Penn State Cooperative Extension Office. The dates for the 1999 show are January 9th to 14th. Many of the departments have closing dates in early November and December.

The premium list have rules, regulations, requirements, entry forms and schedule of events. Main attractions include rodeo, Pa. State Police Mounted Drill Team, Cumberland County 4-H Drill Team, Folk Dance Festival, Sheep to Shawl contest and Bid Calling contest. Be sure to pick up copy of the premium list, read it and make your entries for the 1999 Farm Show. Mark your calendars now and plan to attend this outstanding agricultural show.

To Plant Cover Crops

Using cover crops on the farm offers many advantages at a very minimal cost while requiring little time input, according to Robert Anderson, Lancaster County Extension Agronomy Agent. Cover crops planted in the fall are super at reducing winter soil erosion.

Cover crops add organic matter to the soil profile which in turn increases the soil's ability to hold water, nutrients and improves soil tilth. Fall planted cover crops capture nitrogen in the soil at the end of one growing season and prevent it from leaching below the root zone. Cover crops may help break up compacted zones in the soil.

Cover crops help hold livestock waste spread on the field in the winter. Cover crops make an excellent source of additional forages for the livestock and dairy farmer. As you see, cover crops offer many advantages at a very small price.

THE BAALS IN YOUR BACKYARD

October 4, 1998

Background Scripture:
Judges 2
Devotional Reading:
Psalms 78:17-32

So what are these 'baals' that I'm saying are so close at hand?

In the Old Testament Baal was a Canaanite farm god who was thought to be responsible for the germination and growth of crops, the increase of flocks and fruitfulness of farm families. He was also believed to be the consort of the goddess Asherah or Astarte.

There was not just one Baal, but each Canaanite community had its own manifestation of Baal. All of the Baals together were referred to as the Baalism and they were worshipped on mountain "high places" in licentious rituals. This worship was known as Baalism and, although strictly forbidden by God, was very attractive to the people of Israel who had heretofore practiced an austere desert wilderness religion.

From our 20/20-hindsight vantage point more than 3,000 years later, it seems incredible that Baalism should have been a threat. Trust in Good and his covenant had freed these people from captivity in Egypt, guided them safely through the wilderness and brought them to the promised land. With a track record like that why wouldn't they continue to "dance with the one that brung them"?

VICIOUS CYCLE

Judges 2 is an introduction to the whole book, setting forth a cycle of national apostasy, peril, repentance and deliverance. Practically every chapter follows that outline and begins with these words: "And the people of Israel did what was evil in the sight of the Lord and served the Baals" (Judges 2:11). The writer of Judges seems as incredulous as we are today: "...and they forsook the Lord...who had brought them out of the land of Egypt..." (12). After all the Lord had done for them, how could they forsake him?

Generations from now, people may look at us and ask the same question. After all that God has done for us, how can we turn from him and worship the Baals in our backyards? From the perspective of time, it may be quite apparent that we, too, have forsaken the Lord.

If the people of Israel had been asked whether they had forsaken the Lord and were worshipping the Baals, I am sure that they would have replied in the negative. The "anger of the Lord was kindled against Israel," not because of what they did. They still gave lip-service to the Lord, but it was to the Baals that they turned when they determined their values and their conduct.

OUR BAALS

Most of us also profess to believe in god, but it is not our profession, but our conduct that is offensive to the Lord. When we decide what is important in life, when we determine the ethics by which we live our daily lives, where do we turn for the answers? What backyard Baals entice us: power, wealth, popularity, sex, pleasure, material things or others? To what or whom do we turn when we need help? In what or whom do we trust? Where does our money go?

Inevitably, in Judges, whenever the people forsook the Lord and "did what was evil in the sight of the Lord," there was a painful price to be paid. Often, it was only when they were in the midst of suffering a terrible price that they repented and called upon the Lord to get them out. Since much of their suffering was at the hands of foreign enemies, God's response to their pleas was to raise up judges, "who saved them out of the power of those who plundered them" (16).

Yet, although time after time he sent judges to save them, they would eventually rebel against him again and the cycle would start all over again Note that, although they were not faithful to him, he was faithful to them. Despite their dismal record of loyalty, the Lord did not give up on them.

Just as, despite all those Baals in our backyards, he does not give up on us.

"Best Kept Secret In The Poultry Business"

L.B.WHITE®

Infraconic Heat Efficiency

By maximizing the conversion of gas to radiant energy, the L.B. White Infraconic gives you more heat for your fuel dollar as well as a broader area of heat output and more consistent temperature at bird level. With more consistent temperatures and a larger 'comfort zone', the infraconic helps your birds grow by keeping them warm, making it easier for them to find feed and water, and keeping the litter drier.

Lightweight and easy to install, the Infraconic is also simple to clean and maintain. And because the Infraconic hangs higher than other brooders, it's easier to work around during production or clean out.

L.B. White Infraconic brooders are available in 17,100 and 34,200 Btuh outputs, as well as your choice of LP or natural gas.

Winter Is Soon Here, Are Your Heaters Ready?

Flexible and economical heat:
•Models to meet different needs, with heat outputs from 20,000 to 325,000 Btuh, plus variable outputs for greater heating efficiency.
•All models are available for use with propane or natural gas
•Compact profiles and indoor or outdoor mounting capability for easy installation and efficient use of space.
Reliable and durable:
•Sentinel System III advanced diagnostic controls monitor all primary heater functions for dependable worry-free operation.
•Sentinel System III diagnostics pinpoint potential heater interruptions quickly and accurately to save time and money.
•High quality components and solid case construction washdowns and years of dependable service in corrosive environments.

Compared to last week: Feeder steers steady to 1.00 lower; feeder heifers 1.00-2.00 lower. Steer and heifer calves 1.00-3.00 lower. Seven National Championships

2—Pennsylvania, New York and New Jersey — The victors in 1997. The young riders compete for individual titles on Thursday and Friday, October 8 and 9.

The Junior Jumper championship precedes by one day the American Horse Shows Association/Eisers and Pessoa National Hunt Seat Equitation Medal Championship, which will celebrate its golden anniversary in 1998. More than two hundred of the country's top young riders under age 18 endure a grueling day of competition and advanced tests over fences as they are judged on their horsemanship and control. The field is slowly narrowed until a handful of finalists are given a final test, which may be as difficult as jumping a challenging course without coaching and on a horse they've never before ridden.

The prize is the medal that recognizes the best young rider in the country. The list of riders who have won over the past 50 years reads like a who's who of American equestrian sports, many of whom have gone on to represent the US internationally in Olympic and World Cup competition.

Pennsylvania is home to more foxhunting clubs than any state except Virginia, so it's only fitting that the North American Foxhunting Horn Blowing Championship be held at the Pennsylvania National. Created by the Master of Foxhounds Association in 1995, the championship will be held during Hunt Night, sponsored by Mellon Bank, on Monday, October 12. The championship tests the ability of hunt staff to execute the four traditional melodies that communicate to hunters spread over a wide area the movement of the hounds in the hunt field.

A new national title for professional jumper riders will be held for the first time on Friday evening, October 16. The North American League Open Jumper Speed Series $25,000 Championship, presented by Baron Farms, showcases top professional riders on the true speedsters of the open jumper ranks—those who jump high and go fast. Riders have qualified for the finals by competing successfully throughout 1998 over fences 4'9" high at shows from Florida to Ontario and in the midwest.

Other national titles decided at the show are the North American League Children's Jumper Finals, Wednesday, October 14, the North American League Adult Jumper Finals, Saturday, October 17, the North American League Children's Hunter Finals, Tuesday, October 13, and the North American League Adult Hunter Finals, Friday, October 16. These championships are for amateur adults and children, competing over fences no higher than 3'6". Qualifying points are earned by horses and riders as a team—a rider at the top of the standings must compete in the championship on the horse on which he or she earned points. About four hundred qualifying classes are held throughout 1998 at the shows in the east, midwest, California and Colorado.

Other world class championships are held at the PNHS, among them the $50,000 Budweiser Grand Prix de Penn National, part of the Budweiser/American Grand Prix Series of Showjumping, held Saturday night, October 17, and the $25,000 Pennsylvania Big Jump, Thursday, October 15. Both are used by the US Equestrian Team to pick the horses and riders who will compete internationally under the American flag.

The Pennsylvania National Horse show, America's largest multi-bred indoor horse show features competition for one thousand horses from across the US: hunters, jumpers, draft, saddlebred, western pleasure and roadster horses and Hackney ponies. Pfautz Enjoys Champion Swine Limelight At New Holland

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

NEW HOLLAND (Lancaster Co.) — Kevin Pfautz waited patiently, watching as his sister, Lisa, won champion swine at the Ephrata Fair the previous week.

This time, it was Lisa's turn to wait and congratulate her brother, as Kevin picked up the large championship trophy Tuesday evening at the New Holland Farmers' Fair.

Kevin, 16, son of Rick and Sue Pfautz, Lititz, showed a hog that was "longer-bodied, an ultra lean pig, with a larger framework than the others in the show ring," according to Nelson Beam, Elverson, judge.

Kevin, a sophomore at Warwick High School, showed the light heavyweight division champion, a gilt from a Hampshire/Duroc sow bred to a Yorkshire boar. The family raises only show hogs. As for Kevin, he plans to show at Manheim, the Keystone International Livestock Exposition, and Farm Show.

Reserve champion went to last year's grand champion of the show, Patrick Good. Patrick, 19, is the son of Amos and Pat Good, Lititz. He showed a crossbred gilt. Judge Nelson Beam enjoyed the overall leanness of the hog, "just a real complete pig," he said.

There were a total of 72 hogs and 30 exhibitors. Following is a list of show placings.

Elsie Wolff

served on the All-American dairy show improvement committee since the committee began in 1988.

Elsie and her husband, Scott have bred several Excellent Guernseys on their Hollow View Farm in Quarryville, Lancaster County.

When asked how to keep the All-American dairy show growing, she said, "The youth are the future and we need to keep encouraging them and showing them what a great way of life the dairy business can provide." If her past accomplishments are any indication, we can be sure she will work to encourage young people to be a part of the dairy industry that she loves.

The image award is given each year to someone who has worked diligently to improve the image of the All-American show, now in its 35th year. The award, a hand-crafted stained glass hanging mirror, is inscribed; "Awarded to an individual who has enhanced the image of the Pennsylvania All-American Dairy Show by significant contributions toward its reputation, prestige and welfare."

Land O'Lakes Open House

CARLISLE (Cumberland Co.) – More than 2,500 visitors attended Land O'Lakes' Carlisle milk manufacturing plant open house on Aug. 13.

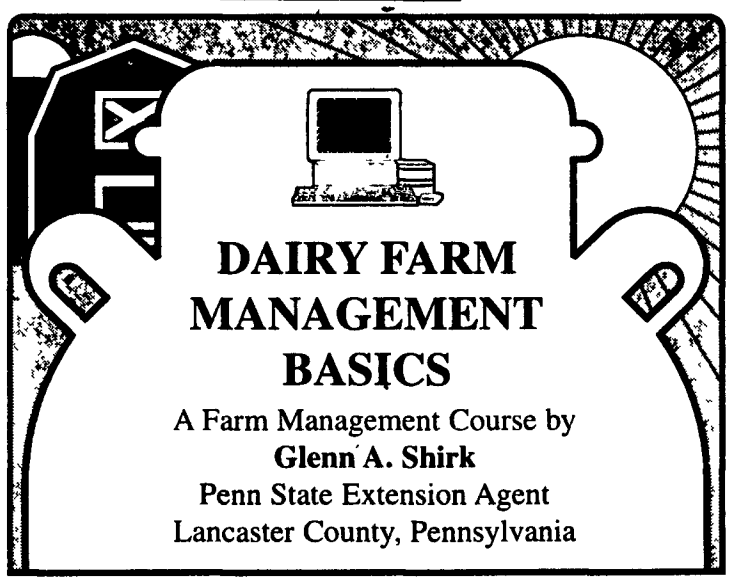
In the event included plant tours, exhibits and an opportunity to meet with elected officials.

The all-day event joined land O'Lakes employees, co-op members and families, commodity buyers, local business leaders, state agriculture officials and families, commodity buyers, local business leaders, state agriculture officials and representatives from commercial business partners such as Hershey's, to see first-hand the plant's modernization and to meet with plant management.

Additionally, representatives of the Grocery Manufactures of American (GMA), met with U.S. Rep Bill Goodling (R), 19th District, to discuss legislation and policies impacting retailers of food and agricultural products The group later toured the plant.

"We have great pride in being part of this community," explained Steve Patience, Land O'Lakes plant manager. "Our open house gave grocers, producers and business leaders a chance to meet, exchange ideas and enjoy the day. It's one way we acknowledge and give back to our friends and partners."

The open house included an exhibit tent on the plant's lawn which provided visitors with information on Land O'Lakes services, as well as sampling of products made with Land O'Lakes manufactured ingredients.



Control Feed Costs - Article 17

Goal Grow and procure good quality feeds economically

Know your feed costs It is your major cost of producing milk

1 Explore your production options and costs The worksheet that was illustrated in Article 7 can serve as a guide for helping to determine your costs of producing feed per acre, cost per ton, or cost per bushel. Some production and harvesting options are listed below.
   - Own or rent land, own your own machinery and grow your own crops
   - Own or rent land, but custom hire someone to do some or all of the field work and harvesting
   - Rent your land out in return for some of the crops, or buy back the crops
   - Own or rent land, buy less machinery, and graze the land vs harvesting it
   - Own or rent land and produce all your own forages and grains
   - Own or rent land and produce most of your forage and buy most of your grain

2 Consider how many cows the land will support when pasturing, or when growing forages only, or when growing forages and grain. As you evaluate stocking intensity, also consider the amount of land that is needed to dispose of manure in a responsible manner, and when it will be available to receive manure applications throughout the year

What feeds do cows need and how can their needs be met at least cost?

1 Let the cows' needs, the cost of home-grown feeds and the cost of purchased feeds, play a major part in dictating the ration to be fed and the crops to be grown Let the cows dictate the cropping program that is most desirable, rather than the cropping program dictating the feeding program

2 Sometimes the above guideline may have to be bent because of machinery, equipment, feed storage facilities and feed handling systems that are already in place

Buy wisely

1 Shop for good prices

2 Many times it is beneficial to invest in economical storage facilities, and to borrow money in order to purchase feeds in bulk at discount rates, or at times when the market is weak, such as at harvest time

3 Consider various commodities as an economical source of good quality ration ingredients

4 If you buy feed ingredients, be sure you are getting the quality you are paying for - - and want As the buyer you are in charge of quality control and you assume more of the risks

5 Feed prices should be adjusted for variations in moisture and quality The value of feeds also vary depending upon where they are priced, for example on the stalk in the field, in the windrow, stored in the grower's facilities, at the market place, or delivered to the farm

Farming and The Taxpayer Relief Act of 1997

As the harvest season begins and the end of the year draws near, inevitably there is an end-of-year evaluation of taxes on agriculture operations. The following article was developed by Steve Sutter, a University of California Area Farm Advisor, to answer many of the questions about the 1997 Taxpayer Relief Act and how it will impact farmers. Mr. Sutter has given The Lancaster Chamber of Commerce & Industry permission to reprint this article, in its entirety, in this edition of Lancaster Farming.

The Taxpayer Relief Act of 1997 lowers Federal income taxes for most farmers, and allows farm families to transfer farms across generations more easily, according to USDA agricultural economists James Monke and Ron Durst. Most provisions of the new law become effective in 1998.

An estimated 6% of farm estates currently owe Federal estate and gift taxes compared with just over 1% of all estates. The Act gradually increases the unified estate and gift tax credit to shield $1 million from estate taxes by 2006. However, due to the relatively slow phase-in through 2003, most of the benefits will be realized in 2004 and beyond. This, and other provisions of the Act should reduce, if not eliminate, the need to sell farm assets to pay Federal estate taxes, especially for continuing businesses

Lower capital gains tax rates provide the greatest income tax savings for farmers -- nearly $725 million of the estimated $1.6 billion annual savings for the U S farming industry The rate declines from 28% to 20% for individuals in most tax brackets (from 15% to 10% for taxpayers in the 15-percent bracket), with lower rates available in the future for assets held at least 5 years.

Couples can exclude up to $500,000 of the gain on the sale of their principal residence. This new exclusion can be used as frequently as every 2 years.

The new law also expands retirement savings incentives. Currently, only about 9% of farmers annually contribute to an individual retirement account (IRA). Although the 1997 Act creates a new, nondeductible "Roth IRA," deductible IRAs are usually preferred if marginal tax rates are expected to fall substantially in retirement.

Farmers who pay their own health insurance premiums will benefit from expanded self-employed health insurance deductions. This year, farmers and other self-employed taxpayers are allowed a deduction of 45% of health insurance premiums; the percentage deduction gradually increases to 100% by tax year 2007 and thereafter.

The Act restores farmers' ability to use deferred payment contracts without being subject to the alternative minimum tax (AMT). Deferred payment contracts allow farmers to deliver farm commodities for sale at a specified price, with payment deferred until the following year. The Act also repeals the AMT for small corporations (most farm corporations) beginning in 1988.

The Act increases tax benefits for most taxpayers for having dependent children by providing a $500 ($400 for 1998) tax credit for each qualifying child under the age of 17 An additional refundable credit is allowed for taxpayers with 3 or more children The new child tax credit is expected to benefit about one-third of all farmers and their families

Farmers and their advisers can request the free IRS Publication 225 "Farmer's Tax Guide" each year (December) on 1-800-829-3676 For more specific information be sure to discuss your options with your account or financial advisors.

Feel free to send your comments and ideas to Jim Shirk at The Lancaster Chamber of Commerce & Industry, PO Box 1558, Lancaster, PA 17608-1558, by email at jshirk@lcci.com or call him at (717) 397-3531.

Adam Shue Jr. had the supreme champion market hog for both the junior and the open shows. This hog sold to Hoss's Steak and Sea House in the junior market livestock sale.

The reserve champion junior market hog was shown by Jessica Innerst and was purchased by Fulton Bank.

Supreme champion market barrow of both the open and junior swine show at York Fair is shown by Adam Shue Jr. with buyer from Hoss' Steak and Sea House.

The reserve champion junior market hog was shown by Jessica Innerst and sold to Fulton Bank.

Correction

In the Solanco Fair junior market livestock sale reported last week, we correctly reported that Andy Hughes sold his grand champion hog to Farmers First Bank represented by Joe Delong. But in the cutline under the picture we credited a different bank as the buyer. We are sorry for this mistake.

PRO-LIX LIQUID FEED

In the dairy business, income over feed cost is the name of the game. Pro-Lix liquid feed supplements offer dairymen the means to maximize this value while getting the most from their cow's natural abilities

Pro-Lix liquid feed supplements are concentrated sources of just what ordinary feeds lack protein, energy, vitamins, minerals -- everything animals need for economical milk production and growth.

For replacement heifers, Pro-Lix means faster maturity and assurance that they'll get to the milking herd on time. If you trust your heifers to forage alone, they might not make it. (Bouvatec Is Available)

For lactating cows, the nitrogen content of Pro-Lix means plenty of protein available for milk production and growth.

Finally, for dry cows, Pro-Lix not only helps maintain their health during the dry period it prepares them for the next lactation. The Ca:P ratio in Pro-Lix helps control milk fever, while the Vitamin E and selenium aids in clean-up after the birth of a calf.

Best of all, Pro-Lix works with all types of pasture grass or forage, as a free-choice supplement, a top-dressing, or a ration mix.

The payoff is healthier animals and economical production, all year round!

PA DHIA Board Visits New Bolton Center

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — The PA DHIA board of directors held a recent meeting at Glen Mills, located near the New Bolton Center of University of Pennsylvania. The board toured the facility.

Dr. Jim Ferguson and Dr. Dave Galligan served as hosts for the tour of the center and dairy facility.

Following dinner, Dr. Ferguson reported on a recent impartial trial on DHIA Milk Urea Nitrogen (MUN) testing. Ferguson said that the PA DHIA infrared MUN test was the most consistent and repeatable of the three DHIA labs providing MUN testing. Those MUN tests checked for repeatability included infrared and wet chemistry testing machines.

"Recent advertisements stating that wet chemistry is more accurate are simply not true," Ferguson said.

Dr. Galligan reported on his work on dairy production and veterinary economics. He said he wants to develop a program that will help a dairyman to know when it is economical to treat a cow.

Galligan also said he wants to be able to measure the economic worth of feed ingredients. He is interested in working with PA DHIA and its Performance Economics Program to help him with his work.

In other business, the board approved the 1998-99 budget. PA DHIA is completing a profitable year, and the new budget calls for a similar sized profit.

No fee adjustments are necessary to achieve the new budget.

Th board had been spending time reviewing the official Policy Manual, and at the meeting the new manual was approved.

Board policies are rules set by the board in which the general managers run the association.

The Planning Committee recommended that district meetings be held between November and February, depending on the wishes of each district. Because of varying harvest times and winter weather, the board accepted the recommendations of the committee.

It was announced that the state annual meeting is to be held Feb. 16, 1999.

It was also announced that director elections are to be held in districts 2, 5, 8, and 11. District 6 also is to hold an election of a director to fulfill the unexpired term of Neal McCulloch.

The Eastern Caucus meeting of National DHIA is set for Oct. 24. Frank Orner, Ralph Gilkinson, John Brodzina, and Dale Hoover are to represent PA DHIA as delegates at the caucus meeting.

In other news, the board approved a resolution that allows a business other than a farmer-owned cooperative to become a member of National DHIA, provided that the organization meets quality control requirements. The resolution is to be presented by the delegates at the national DHIA meetings.

QUESTION: We think body condition scoring can be a good tool to track proper nutrition, but with 300+ cows it takes too much time. Do you have ideas for an alternative plan?

ANSWER: Despite who is doing the scoring, it is sometimes hard to get the job done. One way not just to forget it is to make it a more meaningful tool and incorporate it in our nutrition plans.

We will discuss several ways to make this job just a bit more palatable.

1. The first way, in a way, makes the most sense. What you do is, to body score each cow at the times that you are working one-on-one with her.

The first time is when she calves. By scoring cows at freshing we get a feel for the correctness of your nutrition program during the prefresh period.

Your goal should be not to gain or lose body score during the prefresh cow period. Loss of a score here can result in cows not peaking correctly at 55 to 65 days in milk.

Peak levels will be lower due to body reserves not available when production exceeds dry matter intake.

Next you should score at breeding to establish nutrient adequacy needed for cows to cycle reproductively. Loss of a body score between freshening and breeding is normal but should change to a gain, as you want to breed your cows.

I then like to score cows at 150 to 200 days to establish needs for body weight gains as she nears dry off.

One body score is about 200- to 250-pounds body weight. This is so dependent on frame size in cows that I seldom think about it in this way. It's better to aim for a body score at dry off of 3.5 to 4, on the 5-point scale.

Lastly, score cows at prefresh time to evaluate the dry cow period.

By using this method of body scoring, we can evaluate cow management at times when we have special reasons to work one-on-one with them.

2. The second method is just as simple. It involves the ideas that there are times during the life of the cow that she has little change in body condition despite the management.

During these times, we can get very reliable information about body condition while sampling just part of the cows and applying this average to those cows in that catagory.

The first time you should score is 0- to 60-days in milk.

This group has much variation in weight loss so, you must score most of the cows here. To get reliable numbers, plan to score three our of every four cows, or 75 percent of the herd.

Sixty-one through 150-days in shows less variability in weight changes, so scoring 50 percent of the cows is adequate.

Since I like to use 150 days adjusted milk weights as a performance guide, I also like to score cows at 150- to 180-days in milk. Here you should score 75 percent of the cows for accurate information.

At 181 days through the end of lactation is normally a period of steady (body gain) progress in all cows, so scoring 25- to 50 percent of the herd is all that is necessary.

Dry cows — both early and late — are so important in managing the next lactation that I always do the same percentage as the early lactation cows.

These are two methods that can cut down on time spent, if you want to use body condition scoring as an evaluation tool to feeding management.

Don't get hung up on the numbers, but a look at trends can lead to positive changes in your cows. Body condition scoring can be an important part of modern dairy management.

Dandyland Starbuck Maggy Supreme Of 35th PAADS

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — A 4-year-old Holstein owned by Tom McCauley of Elizabethtown and Fred Strouse of Centre Hall late last week was named supreme champion of the 35th Pennsylvania All-American Dairy Show (PAADS) at the state Farm Show Complex in Harrisburg.

The contest for supreme champion of PAADS is the climax for the several-day long dairy event. Only the grand champions of the six national and regional dairy breed shows held during the week at the Farm Show Complex are eligible.

The top prize that accompanies the title of supreme champion is $1,000. The total premiums for the PAADS shows totalled $78,000, and there were 1,425 entries in the six PAADS breed shows.

In selecting for the supreme champion, some drama is traditionally created. Each breed grand champion entered the Large Arena and circled while Harry Bachman of Annville announced the animal's name, owner, breed classification (correctness as judged by the breed registry organizations) and production information, as well as previous wins.

The equally traditional organ music and lighting effects were enhanced this year with a specially decorated Large Arena, in recognition of the event's 35th anniversary. In addition to the flags of the states and provinces of exhibitors, and curtains behind the showring management table and announcer podiums, off-white sashes were draped along the walls of the show ring, and potted flowers and ornamentals plants decorated the showring edges.

In addition to the six national/regional dairy breed shows, two state shows are held in conjunction with PAADS — the state junior dairy show and the state Holstein Fall Championship show.

The team of McCauley and Strouse, representing New Direction Holsteins in Elizabethtown, showed Maggy to win the Pennsylvania state Holstein Fall Championship earlier in the week, then showed her to win the grand championship of the Eastern National Holstein Show, held immediately prior to the selection for supreme.

The 4-year-old Duregal Astre Starbuck daughter has been on a winning streak, having started the year well by winning the grand championship of the state Holstein Spring Show at Harrisburg.

She followed up with a grand championship at the state regional South Central Championship Holstein Show, in August.

In addition to Tom McCauley and Strouse, New Direction Holsteins is also represented by Dr. Alan McCauley, Sandra McCauley, Kristen McCauley, and, depending on the animal, by some other partners.

On top of the other prizes earned during the week, New Direction Holsteins won the overall good housekeeping award; a competition based on three consecutive days of judging the exhibitor's show stall area and farm displays.

Judges looked at the cleanliness of animals and stalls, the attractiveness of the stall/exhibit area, and cleanliness and neatness of equipment, as well as courtesy to visitors and cooperation with show personnel.

The good housekeeping contest recognizes outstanding exhibit/stalls within each of the six breed shows, and then selects for an overall, or "supreme," champion.

In that way, New Direction Holsteins actually took home two "supreme" titles.

Eastern National Holstein Show

In the rest of the Eastern National Holstein Show, Robert and Mary Smith of Lady's Manor Farm in Maryland exhibited the reserve grand champion, also a 4-year-old, Lady's Manor Elly-Mae. The Smith's cow was also judged best bred and owned of the show.

The junior champion animal was a fall yearling, Tri-Day Ashlyn-ET, exhibited by Oseeana Holsteins of Lumberport, West Virginia.

The reserve junior champion was a spring yearling, Rinehard Princess Ruth, shown by Jeena Rinehart of Taneytown, Md.

While the majority of dairy shows in Pennsylvania distinguish between milking-age (senior) and non-milking age (junior) animals, and select champions and reserve champions for each age group, some of the national-level breed shows at PAADS further subdivide the milking-age animals into senior aged and intermediate aged animals.

Intermediate-aged animals are 2-year-olds and 3-year-olds.

For the Eastern National Holsteins Show, Maple Lawn Farm of Fulton, Maryland, exhibited the intermediate champion, a senior 3-year-old, Medway Astre Mixie.

The reserve intermediate champion was also a senior 3-year-old, E-Ricks Stardust Taz, another champion exhibited by Tom McCauley and Fred Strouse.

In the youth division of the Eastern National Holsteins Show, Kevin Ehrhardt of Baldwin, Maryland, showed the grand champion, a 7-year-old, Ehrhardt's Astro Jody-ET.

Reserve grand champion was a junior 2-year-old, Greenwood Acres Encore Maria, shown by S. Brooks Kennedy, of Kennedyville, Maryland. Kennedy's reserve grand champion was the intermediate champion of the youth division.

The reserve intermediate champion of the youth division was a senior 2-year-old, Ernest-Anthony SD Tobi-ET, owned by Brandon Kling of Corantsville, Maryland.

The junior champion of the youth division was a fall calf, Tri-Day Princess Adeen-ET, owned by David Day of Tri-Day Holsteins in Shippensburg.

The reserve junior champion was a spring calf, Rinehard Mandel Vanessa, owned by Jeena Rinehard.

The premier breeder of the show was Penn Gate Farm of Littlestown, owned by Robert Gitt, and Steve and Christina Wood and sons Corbin and Clayton. They also won the dam and daughter class of the show as well as having the best three females.

The premier exhibitor of the show was Mark and David Campbell and Doug Beatty of Campbell-Run Farms in Ford City.

Eastern National Ayrshire Show

The grand champion of the Eastern National Ayrshire Show was a 7-year-old, Sunny Acres JJ Louise, owned by Kathryn Evans of Sunny Acres Farm in Georgetown New York, owned by Doug and Kathryn Evans.

The Evans were named premier breeder and exhibitor, and the grand champion, Louise, was named best bred and owned animal of the Ayrshire show.

Jeffrey and Michele Reasner of Jemi Ayrshires, in Shippensburg, showed the reserve grand champion Ayshire, also an aged cow, Sunny Acres Misty Polly.

The Ayrshire show included the George Knight Jr. Total Performance Award, based on show placings and dairy production. The winner this year was New Vision Heligo Notorious, owned by New Vision Genetics of Milton, Vermont.

The junior champion of the open division was an intermediate calf, Rosayre Blitz, owned by D. Proctor, and Steve and Mary Woodis of Legacy Lane Farm, in Spencer, Massachusetts.

The reserve junior champion was a spring yearling, OES Prairies Tresor 2-ET, owned by Amy Woodis and Emily Paquette of Lone Birch Farm in North Brookfield, Massechusetts.

The intermediate champion was a senior 2-year-old, Bonnie Elms Super Janet 4, owend by Neil Kittle, of West Meadow Ayrshires, of Ontario, Canada.

The reserve intermediate champion was a junior 3-year-old, Sunnyfield BBK Presence, owned by David Patrick of Maple Dell Farm, in Woodbine, Md.

In the youth division, the grand champion was the intermediate champion, a senior 3-year-old, Magic Meadows Jaye Jypsy, owned by Andrew Evans, of Sunny Acres Farm.

The reserve grand champion was the reserve intermediate champion, a junior 3-year-old, Covey-Palmyra Willy Rose-ET, owned by Michael Andrew Creek and B. Covery, of Palmyra Farm in Hagerstown, Maryland.

The senior champion of the youth division was a 4-year-old, Don-Sher Astro Anne, shown by Jason Stambaugh, of Triple J Ayrshires in East Berlin (Pa.).

The reserve senior champion was the second place 4-year-old, Palmyra Lincoln Ginger, owned by Mark Allen Creek, of Palmyra Farm in Hagerstown, Md.

The junior champion of the youth division was a winter yearling, Sunny Acres Bonnie Pandora, owned by Gregory Evans of Sunny Acres Farm.

The reserve junior champion was a junior calf, Covey Farms Olympic Reward, owned by Crystal Bozlinski, of Wampum.

Eastern National Brown Swiss

In the open division of the Eastern National Brown Swiss show, the grand and senior champion was an aged cow, Long View Jades Raisin, owned by GS Associates, of New Windsor, Maryland.

The reserve grand champion was the reserve senior champion, the second-place aged cow, Campswiss Supreme Faith, owned by R. Martin, D. Beatty, and M. Campell of Campbell-Run Farms in Ford City.

The junior champion was a fall yearling, Top Acres Leverage Frebird, owned by Glad Ray Farm and Hills Hope Holsteins of Emmitsburg, Maryland.

The reserve junior champion was also a fall yearling, Burlin Jetway Rae-ET, owned by Erin Even Burall, of Burlin Farm, in New Windsor, Maryland.

Premier breeder and exhibitor was Robert and Joyce Wagner of Bo-Joy Farm in Quarryville.

The total performance winner was shown by George Smith III of Smith-Mead Farm, of Frederick, Maryland.

In the youth division the grand and senior champion was Meadow Hill Patrick Alaina, a junior 3-year-old, bred and owned by Alicia Ann Mase of Meadow Hill Farm in Lebanon (Pa.).

The reserve grand champion was Dochaven Jetway Mariah, a junior 2-year-old, owned by Katie McKissick of McKissick Farms, in New Castle.

Jacob Hushon, of Brothers Three Brown Swiss, in Delta, showed the junior champion of the youth division, a fall calf, Top Acres Jetway Wisp.

The reserve junior champion was a winter calf, Dublin Hills P Pineapple, owned by Aimee Smith of Dublin Hills Farm in Woodboro, Md.

Heavyweights Are Top Picks At Reading Fair Beef Show

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

KUTZTOWN (Berks Co.) — Like a one-two punch last week, the heavyweights in the market steer competition at Reading Fair took the show, winning overall grand champion and reserve here at the Kutztown Fairgrounds.

Grand champion market steer went to Ben Weist, 15, son of Darlene and Bill Weist, Leesport. Ben showed the heavyweight champion, a 1,324-pound Simmental/Charolais crossbred steer nicknamed "Jed." Jed was the brother of Mark, which allowed Ben to win a wide range of area fairs, according to Ben.

Ben, a sophomore at Schuylkill Valley High School, said the steer is out of his family's 40-head cow/calf operation (about 15 cows). Ben will be showing at Farm Show.

Show judge Brian Kreider, Lebanon, who identified the middleweight champions of the competition as "definitely showy steers," noted the heavyweights despite their finish stood above the rest.

Reserve went to Kelly Dietrich, 16, daughter of Jim and Donna Dietrich, Hamburg. Kelly showed a 1,315-pound Angus/Maine Anjou crossbred steer nicknamed "J.W." for the noted bull rider, J.W. Hart.

As a calf, Kelly said J.W. the steer looked "pretty." The steer, she said, was "obtained from Mr. Eberly, Newmanstown."

Kelly, a junior at Tulpehocken High School, is a member of the Berks County 4-H Beef Club and has won before at the Kutztown Fair. She said she'll be showing at state Farm Show.

In the heifer show, grand champion 4-H went to Ben Weist and FFA champion to Lynette Heffner.

There were a total of 30 steers in the market classes and about another 30 heifers. In all, there were about 40 exhibitors.

Following is a list of show placings.

Pa. State Grange Prepares To Tackle Issues

In addition to member suggested policies and issues, the committees can also work on issues that come to light in the interim.

Further, the state Master can task the committees to address issues of concern.

The Pennsylvania State Grange has 420 local organizations, and is represented in 66 of the state's 67 counties (not Philadelphia).

State policy then directs the Grange's state lobbying efforts. Because the policy is developed this way, state policy is local policy, and local issues become state issues.

Jesse Wood, chairman of the State Grange Agriculture and Environmental Issues Committee, said that at this time the committee had no resoltions to present, but would recommend some policy statements and might have some resolutions for consideration in time for the convention.

Wood said there are two main issues of concern before the committee: a proposal by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency for states to adopt regulations controlling the operations and nutrient management of "concentrated animal feeding operations" (CAFOs); and a potential policy role with regards to focus and operations of the state Animal Health Commission.

As far as the EPA's CAFO proposals, Pennsylvania's Department of Environmental Protection has issued a proposal for changing and adapting the state's Nutrient Management Act regulations and its permitting program under the federal National Pollution Discharge Elimination System (NPDES) in order to fulfill the intent of the EPAs CAFO regulations.

According to Woods, "We do not specifically have policy on large (livestock) operations, but we have stated that the Grange does not separate small farms from large farms. All farming activities should be within the scope of the laws and regulations governing their operations."

According to Wood, Included in the EPA CAFO proposal is that CAFOs with 301 to 1,000 animal equivalent units (roughly, one animal unit equals the weight of an adult cow) and a potential to discharge to surface water must have a nutrient management plan with a contingency plan for emergencies.

Those operations are to be be regisertred with DEP and must have an erosion and sedimentation control plan for earth disturbances and for acreage where manure will be applied.

For earth disturbances greater than 5 acres, an NPDES permit for storm water discharges will be needed, Wood said. "When this is completed, a general permit will be issued."

Of potential concern is the fact that the permitting process allows for a public comment period.

For those operations with more than 1,000 animal units, the proposal is that they will need a special CAFO NPDES permit. Included is to be a nutrient management plan, an erosion and sedimentation control plan for eather disturbances and acreages where manure would be applied, another NPDES permit for storm water discharges for earth disturbances of greater than 5 acres, a water quality management Part II permit for having a manure storage facility, a preparedness and prevent contigency plan, and public participation.

"The Grange will look at developing policy (about the EPA CAFO rules adoption in Pennsylvania) using this type of approach (through the compliance proposal from DEP to EPA) versus a legislative or regulatory proposal.

"Obviously, this proposed document will have significant impact on a number of farmers," Wood said. "The question is whether or not DEP should be able to impose this type of strategy through policy decisions or should it undergo the scrutiny of a more formal process through the General Assembly.

"Another concern we have to address is whether or not all of the CAFOs should become part of a public participation process," he said. "Should farmers be required to have public access to their plans and have the public become part of the permit process?"

As far at the Animal Health Commission, Wood said the Grange already has policy supporting the efforts of the Animal Health Commission.

However, he added, "The Commission is undergoing a process to look at its strengths and weaknesses and ultimately determine how to better serve the agricultural community.

"We must be a part of the process to make sure the new laboratory system is functioning and serving our producers, veterinarians and consumers."

John Courtney, chairman of the Environmental and Conservation Sub-Committee, addressed the DEP citizens volunteer monitoring program.

The citizens volunteer monitoring program has been ongoing for years, as the state has not been able to afford staff to continuously gather data about its many streams across the state. Such data includes temperature and flow, but can also include turbidity, oxygen levels or other parameters as equipment and volunteer expertise allows.

Twenty years ago, the best the state could do on its own was monitor stream conditions one day every 10 years.

Since data collected at that rate is useless, the raw field data collected through volunteers is seen as a benefit in helping to monitor possible changes in stream quality.

However, the program has become controversial with the state DEP proposal to formalize it.

Pa. State Grange Prepares To Tackle Issues

Fears have arisen that perhaps formalization of the volunteer program would provide volunteers with some state authority that could override the rights of landowners against trespass.

According to Courtney, "The ag community seems to have several questions about the program. Who is liable if there is damage to the farm, or if the citizen is hurt on the premises?

"What recourse does a landowner have if they say, 'No trespassing,' and the monitor goes on the private land anyway?

"What happens to the data when it is collected, and what happens if the data is collected to further a vendetta against the landowner (such as a hog, dairy, poultry or feedlot operation that is unpopular with a residential neighbor)?

"The Grange feels it needs to formulate policy on the issue and will take a serious look at it at the state convention..." he said.

Another issue of the Sub-Committee is the condition of landfills in Pennsylvania.

He said that with a potential Lawsuit Abuse Reform Act, "... there is not an official draft ... because the General Assembly is not going to introduce it until the next legislative session.

"However, the Grange will look at developing policy at this convention (Oct. 22-28) so that the legislative director will have a clear position to represent the Grange ... ."

Barbar Gross, chairman of the State Grange Family Issues Committee, said there were four issues of concern: school violence; a proposal to the state Public Utility Commission by a group of 20 small telephone companies to have their rates increases made automatically through a tie with the inflation index; the lack of required credentials for those home-schooling children and the lack of confirmatory testing, and consistency in rules (they vary from school district to school district); and the lack of telecommunications equipment in rural areas for students to be able to take advantage of long distance learning opportunities granted by U.S. Congress in the Telecommunications Act of 1996.

Robert Sattazahn, chairman of the Dairy Committee reported that resolutions on tap for the convention delegates to consider call for even stronger support for a vaccination program for the eradication of Johne's Disease, as well as an indemnity program for farmers who cull cattle due to the disease.

"The Pennsylvania State Grange has been in the forefront of Johne's Disease research work in Pennsylvania for the last 15 years, and will continue to do so until a vaccination is developed in the future," Sattazahn said.

(As an aside, according to a report this week, Pennsylvania accepts 25 percent of the nation's states' exported waste into its landfills. With proximity to the East Coast megalopolis, and the lack of proper planning by the other states' cities for waste management, Pennsylvanians can make more money using a farm as a landfill than for food production.)

According to Courtney, "Gov. Tom Ridge has put a moratorium on new landfills and expansion permits, and has asked for the legislative imposition of a three-year freeze on new permits. The Grange plans to discuss this issue in depth at the convention," he said.

Paul Dawson, chairman of the state Grange Governmental Issues Committee, talked about three issues of concern for the committee — consumer protection against misleading solicitations to purchase goods hidden in so-called "sweepstakes by mail" programs; achieving a lawsuit abuse reform act to discourage the waste in money and time on frivolous lawsuits; and providing some statewide competency and consistency with regards to local enforcement of the laws regarding the use of farm vehicle license plates.

"Does the American public have the protection it needs to guard against mail and phone solicitations and from those who prey on innocent citizens? Should we support tightening the laws against fraudulent or near-fraudulent sweepstakes?" Dawson asked.

$14.88 August Milk

ALBANY, N.Y. – Dairy farmers who supplied regulated milk dealers (handlers) under the New York-New Jersey marketing orders during August 1998 will be paid by handlers on the basis of a uniform price of $14.88 per hundredweight (32 cents per quart); the price for the corresponding month last year was $12.22 per hundredweight.

Market Administrator Ronald C. Pearce also stated that the price was $13.53 in July 1998. The uniform price is a marketwide weighted average of the value of farm milk used for fluid and manufactured dairy products.

A total of 9,691 dairy farmers supplied handlers regulated under the New York-New Jersey marketing orders with 989,733,727 pounds of milk during August 1998. This was a decrease of 1 5 percent (about 15 million pounds) from last year.

The gross value to dairy farmers for milk deliveries was $147,753,996.74. This included differentials required to be paid to dairy farmers but not premiums, deductions authorized by the farmer, or assessments.

Regulated handlers used 387,291,542 pounds of milk for Class I, 39.1 percent of the total. This milk is used for fluid milk products such as homogenized, flavored, low test, and skim milks For August 1998, handlers paid $15.52 per hundredweight (33.4 cents per quart) for Class I milk compared with $13.16 a year ago.

Handlers used 154,423,065 pounds of milk for Class II products, 15.6 percent of the total. Class II products include fluid cream, eggnog, ricotta and cottage cheese, ice cream, and yogurt. Handlers paid $13.40 per hundredweight for this milk.

CATTLE: Compared to last week's closing prices; slaughter steers closed 2.00- 2.50 lower, instances 3.00 lower on the highest quality cattle. Demand was fairly light this past week for all classes of cattle with increased pressure from lower boxed beef and futures prices. Major cattle feeding areas continue to struggle with large front-end supplies and heavy carcass weights. Western feedlots sold cattle late in the week for 57.00 live and 91.00 dressed. Holstein steer prices finished weak to 1.00 lower and this week's light run of slaughter heifers sold mostly 2.00 lower. Slaughter cow and bull prices plunged again this week in slow trading. Slaughter cows closed 1.50-2.50 lower and bulls ended 2.00-3.00 lower. This week's supply was made up of around 45 percent slaughter steers, 5 percent slaughter heifers, 36 percent slaughter cows, 4 percent bulls and the balance were feeder cattle.

National Apple Harvest Festival Opens Today

BIGLERVILLE (Adams Co.) — The 34th National Apple Harvest Festival, sponsored by The Upper Adams Jaycees, will open its gates to visitors during the first two weekends in October—October 3-4 and 10-11. The family fun-filled festival runs daily 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. at the South Mountain Fairgrounds, located 10 miles northwest of Gettysburg at Arendtsville.

The South Mountain's climate, fertile soils, and rolling hills are ideally suited to growing apples of unique quality and flavor. Each year Adams County's fruit growers harvest more than seven-million bushels of apples making it the number one apple-producing county in Pennsylvania. Harvest time is the final step in a year-long effort to produce fine fruit and everyone involved gets caught up in a festive mood. The Jaycees want to share this joy with you, so relax and step back into yesteryear and join in the festivities.

See beautiful displays of red and golden apples waiting to be harvested. Free guided bus tours take you into the core of the apple-laden orchards and beautiful Pennsylvania woodlands dressed in their autumn best.

Reminisce about the days gone by with the owners of the antique farm equipment and autos, hit 'n miss gas engines, and the operating shingle mill. Children, young and old alike, will enjoy the petting zoo, Chicken Karaoke with Ray Owen, the old-fashioned games at Kid Country, apple bobbing and pie-eating contests, and trying out their tractor driving skills at the mini-tractor pull.

Local and regional entertain-

Things That Make The Fairs Go 'Round

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

EPHRATA (Lancaster Co.) — Year after year, community fairs attract and entertain thousands of people. The casual fairgoer takes for granted the many behind-the-scenes duties carried out by volunteers to hold another successful fair.

Last week, Ephrata Fair held its 80th fair and West Lampeter Community Fair celebrated its 74th year.

In addition to the standard livestock shows, the displays of fruits, vegetables, and needlework, each fair continues to offer added attractions. Sometimes it takes some wandering around the fairgrounds to find these unexpected events. Many times fairgoers learn more about their community and what it offers year-round.

One such event was at the Lampeter Fair, where Bob VanderPlate and his son Jordan were dressed in wool uniforms worn by soldiers who fought in the Civil War. The VanderPlates are part of the Civil War Re-enactment Encampment.

"We are here to recruit and acquaint people with re-enactments," VanderPlate said.

In addition to relics from the Civil War era, the VanderPlates had pictures featuring their Mellinger Manor Bed and Breakfast where special events are held throughout the year. During the Civil War weekend this past year, the burning of the Columbia bridge was re-enacted. Living history demonstrations are held and for-

At the Ephrata Fair, this blue-ribbon winner in the Home Garden Arrangement required 10 varieties of vegetables, three of each kind. It was arranged by Kate Tessen, advertising sales manager of Ephrata Review. She doodled for hours to come up with this display that incorporates her mother's Anchor Hocking milk glass placed in painted white crates with green-checkered napkins.

ment perform continuously at the Bluegrass Hollow, Cider Barrel, Appleseed, and Rockin' Apple Stages. Free entertainment includes bluegrass, country and western, steel drums, square dancers, Indian dancers, and puppeteers. Take a rest in the Apple Auditorium featuring the Apple Museum, 1997 Photo Contest winners, apple art, displays by area fruit growers, and Pennsylvania's Apple Queen, Shannon Shelleman.

The craftsmen's demonstration area spotlights a potter, weavers, blacksmith, sheepherder, glass blower, tin smith, and a moccasin maker, just to name a few.

Don't miss the 300 arts and crafts' vendors featuring hand made jewelry, baskets, wooden items, clothing, stained glass, dolls, scarecrow making, to be given as gifts or to keep for yourself.

The reason most people give for coming back to the festival is for the food! The apple—the highlight—is available in sauces, jellies, syrups, cider, fritters, pancakes, desserts, butters or candied. New this year is apple cider stew and fried apple rings. Or enjoy a delicious Adams County apple after watching it be peeled on an antique apple peeler. On the way out the gate, take home a basketful of Adams County apples to preserve a harvest of memories.

Other foods not to be missed are the finger-licking chicken or pork barbecues, rib-eye steak, sausage, or ox roast sandwiches, funnel cakes, homemade soups, and soft pretzels made right before your eyes. Many of the concession stands are run by members of the local Lions Clubs, Jaycee organizations, fire companies, fruit growers association, 4-H clubs, and Republican and Democrat parties who use their earnings to support activities in their communities.

The Jaycees started the festival in 1964 as a fund raiser to finance their projects. One project, Oakside Community Park—purchased by the Jaycees in 1975—receives 50 percent of the festival's profits to develop and maintain the park. The 68-acre park is one mile east of Biglersville on Route 394.

Admission is Adults $6, Senior Citizens (62 and above) $5, and Children under 12 are free. Parking and shuttle buses are free. Pets are not allowed on festival grounds.

For information, contact The National Apple Harvest Festival, P.O. Box 38, Biglerville, PA 17307, phone (717) 677-9413; or The Gettysburg Convention and Visitors Bureau, 35 Carlisle Street, Gettysburg, PA 17325, phone (717) 334-6274, or check out the web site at www.appleharvest.com.

Farm Women Societies

Lebanon Society 21

Lebanon Farm Women Society 21 toured Fort Indiantown Gap Helicopter Base. Jay Bachman showed five different types of helicopters, which are difficult to believe how large they are when up close.

Members also went to the weather tower on the base to learn what goes on for the helicopters to be able to land and take off softly. After the tour, members had ice cream sundaes and a brief meeting.

The September meeting was held at Ono Fire Hall where members entertained Group 10. Larry and Lorraine Shuey and Darrel and Jane Emrick showed slides and talked about their recent Alaskan tour and cruise, where they had the chance to pan for gold and found a little bit.

Meat, cheese, and fruit trays were served as refreshments.

The next meeting will be at the home of Kynel Himmelberger.

Planning for Holiday Spending

The holiday shopping season will soon begin. For may consumers, that means trouble.

Already overextended with credit card borrowing and other debt, too many consumers spend way beyond their means during the holidays. When January rolls around, they're left with a hangover of unpaid bills and unhappy creditors.

Here are some common-sense tips on avoiding post-holiday financial blues.

•Make a budge and stick to it.

Figure out how much you can reasonably afford to spend. One way is by listing your income from wages and investments, and then subtracting your regular minimum monthly expenses, such as rent or mortgage payments, food, auto loan payments, insurance and utility bills. What's left is discretionary income that you could use for holiday spending.

Once you figure out how much you can afford, make a list of those you will give to and the amounts per person. Take the list with you when you go shopping. If you spend less on one person, you can spend more on another.

Shop for bargains but resist the temptation to spend more than your total.

Don't go shopping at the last minute; that causes impulse buying.

• Recognize the warning signs of too much debt.

You have no business increasing your borrowing at all if you fit any of the following conditions: your payments are always late and you are constantly receiving collection notices from creditors; you are constantly taking cash advances on your credit card; you are opening up more credit cards just to pay off debts on other cards; you are using savings to pay basic monthy bills such as rent or utilities; your savings totals less than two-three months of take-home pay; or you use more than 20-percent of your take-home pay to pay monthly non-mortgage installment debts such as car payments and credit card bills.

If you meet any of those conditions, it's time to cut back on your debts – not add to them.

• Understand the costs of credit card promotions and gimmicks.

Many issuers offer "skip payment" options where you don't have to pay every month. Sounds great. But finance charges will generally continue to accrue during the months you don't pay. The same is often true of deferred-payment offers where you don't have to pay for several months.

• Consider alternatives to borrowing and spending.

Use cash. At least you can only spend what you have or go on a holiday savings program. Figure out what you spend on the holiday and make it a point to save a one-twelfth of that amount each month during the year.

Also, the best gifts are not necessarily the most expensive — or ones that you buy. Holiday presents that you make, like baked goods, show thoughtfulness and can be just as appreciated as any you purchase.

•Beware of credit scams.

Holiday make wonderful times for credit scam artists. You should offer your credit card for identification but refuse to allow merchants to write your card numbers down on checks; destroy carbons; check billing statements carefully for purchased you didn't make or that were never delivered and write your card issuer immediately to dispute such charges; never give your card number over the phone unless you're certain that the company is reputable; and keep your card in view when you give it to sales clerks to prevent them from making extra imprints.

•Know what to do if you get in trouble.

Contact your creditors. They can often help you work out a more manageable repayment schedule.

Your county cooperative extension office has "Take Control of Your Money" booklets that can be helpful in your planning process and they're FREE.

How Do You Remove Pet Urine?

There are many pet removal products on the market, usually available in the cleaning supplies section of your local grocery store. Before using any cleaning product, it is important to test for colorfastness by applying a small amount on an unexposed area of the carpet or upholstery. Let stand for five minutes, then rinse. If the color is affected, don't use the product. Never over-wet the area, and always use clean, white towels or paper towels. If the stgain removal formula is unable to remove the stain, try mixing one teaspoon of ammonia with ½ cup water and blot. Blot any remaining stain removal agents or moisture with a clean, white towel, and let dry.

It is important to remember that this process takes patience and careful testing. If the stain persists after this process, it may become necessary to seek advice from a carpet cleaning professional.

FALL HAS FELL..er, FALLEN

October's here
And brings much change
Our setting now
We rearrange.

The summer stuff
Needs put away
'Cause cooler weather's
Here to stay.

Dig the dahlias
Yank the screens
Root through drawers
For warmer jeans.

Stack the lawn chairs
In the shed
Tuck flannel sheets
Upon the bed.

Shell the sunflowers
Store the 'taters,
Gather up
those last tomatoes.

Scrub storm windows
Wash the curtains
They sure need it
That's for certain.

Those "sticky tapes"
Can now come down
The calf barn flies
Are leaving town.

Cornfields are brown
And soybeans yellow
Each farmer's a
Very busy fellow.

The combines hum
Into the night
To harvest crops
When they're just right.

Our neighbors' lawns
Sport smould'ring leaves
Their smoke wafts by
On gentle breeze.

The flowers are blooming
In one last fling
To set their seed
For another spring.

These chilly evenings
Sit and rock a bit
Trade the iced tea
For hot chocolate.

A "V" of geese
Flaps past the moon
Foretelling what's to come....
Too soon.

This IS my favorite
Time of year
Fall isn't coming....
Its already here.

4-H HAPPENINGS

Fayette Countywide 4-H Beef Club To Reorganize

The Fayette Countywide 4-H Beef Club will be reorganizing for the 1999 project year Thursday, Oct. 8, 7:30 p.m. in the Grange Building at the Fayette County Fairgrounds.

Youth between the ages of 8 to 19 are eligible to actively participate in the 4-H program sponsored and conducted by Penn Sate Cooperative Extension.

Any youth interested in participating in the beef club will have options focused on breeding animals and/or market steers. 4-H beef club members will learn how to properly select, house, feed and otherwise manage a beef type animal(s), including marketing.

Youth also will learn leadership skills by being a member of the 4-H Beef Club. Public speaking, parliamentary procedure, problem solving, decision making, public relations, and cooperation are just some of the skills 4-H members can learn if they are involved in the 4-H program.

For potential 4-H members who desire to maintain a market steer project, animals must be purchased prior to November so all members can participate in the annual 4-H Market Steer weigh-in, usually held the first Saturday in November.

For more information, contact the Penn State Cooperative Extension office at (724) 438-0111.

Horse Enthusiasts Invited to Hooftalk Clinic

Area veterinarians, 4-H horse club leaders, stable managers, farriers, and 4-H club members are invited to attend a "Hooftalk Clinic" scheduled this month in Northampton County at Willowbrook Farm.

More specifically, Lyle E. 'Bergy" Bergeleen, president of Hooftalk, Inc., a West coast farrier and author to two manuals and two videotapes on hoof care, will conduct two clinics addressing hoof care and horse lameness. He will focus his talk/clinic on finding natural balance to prevent horse lameness. He also will discuss hoof and horse balance asymmetry compensation and navicular syndrome.

The clinic on Thursday, Oct. 8, from 7 p.m. to 10 p.m. is offered specifically for horse owners, 4-H leaders and 4-H members and stable managers. The cost of the clinic is $20.00 per person.

The second clinic on Friday, Oct. 7 from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. is offered specifically for farriers and horse veterinarians. The cost of this clinic is $30 per person.

Both of these clinics are being sponsored by Willowbrook Farm and the Penn State Cooperative Extension and Rutgers Cooperative Extension.

Taste-Tempting Pork Dishes

Pork is a classic that's perfect for serving at an elegant meal or at an every day dinner.

Cooked to medium doneness (slightly pink in the center, 155-160 degrees) pork is lean, juicy, and tender. Pork's mild taste complements many favorite flavors. Season a rack of pork (have the butcher remove the backbone for easy slicing between the ribs) with garlic and pepper and pair with Cranberry Chutney for an elegant feast. Or glaze Fresno Pork Roast with pineapple, citrus, and cloves, and garnish with strawberries.

HAM PUFF

2 cups ground ham, cooked
1 cup ground cooked carrots
3 tablespoons melted butter
2 eggs, beaten
2 cups milk
2 cups flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper

Sift together dry ingredients. Beat eggs and milk; add to flour mixture. Add ground carrots, ham, and melted butter. Bake in greased casserole or muffin tins at 400 degrees for 25-30 minutes. Serves 6-8.

FRESNO PORK ROAST

3-pound pork loin roast
1 tablespoon sugar
2 tablespoons cornstarch
¾ cup canned pineapple juice
¾ cup orange juice
Dash salt
Dash ground cloves
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 pint fresh strawberries, hulled, sliced

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Place roast in shallow roasting pan and bake 60-90 minutes or until inserted meat thermometer registers 155-160 degrees. Remove roast from oven, let stand 10 minutes before slicing.

While roast is cooking, combine sugar and cornstarch in medium saucepan. Stir in pinepple and orange juices and cook, stirring over medium heat, until mixture bubbles and thickens.

Remove from heat and stir in salt, cloves, and lemon juice. Serve roast with sauce, and garnish with berrries.

PORK ROAST

4-5 pound pork roast
1 large onion
1 teaspoon salt
2-3 tablespoons vinegar

Pierce roast with a sharp knife or fork. Sprinkle with salt. Spoon vinegar over meat. Cover with onion slices. Cover roast tightly with foil to seal all edges. Bake at 300 degrees for 4 to 5 hours.

GARLICKY MUSTARD AND ROSEMARY COATED PORK CHOPS

3 tablespoons honey-Dijon mustard
2 tablespoons olive oil
1 tablespoon roasted garlic pepper
1 teaspoon crushed dried rosemary

PEPPERED RACK OF PORK

4-5 pounds loin pork roast
2 cloves garlic, peeled
Coarsely ground pepper

Preheat oven to 350 degrees.

Cut garlic cloves in half, and rub over all surfaces of loin; sprinkle generously with black pepper.

Featured Recipe

Since garden growth is slowing down, not much time is left to enjoy fresh-from-the-garden produce, but here's a recipe from Elizabeth Beaver, a reader from Ringtown.

This eggplant soup is a tasty way to use any end-of-the-seaon egg plant and peppers and also a delightful way to warm up on chilly fall days.

ROASTED EGGPLANT SOUP

1 large eggplant (about 2 pounds)
2 cloves baked garlic
1 tablespoon oil from baked-roasted garlic
2 cups chicken broth
1 cup heavy cream
3 serrano chiles, seeded and chopped
½ to 1 teaspoon salt (or to taste)

Preheat oven to 400 degrees. With large kitchen fork, pierce eggplant in several places and place in ungreased shallow baking pan.

Bake eggplant, uncovered, until very soft, about 1 hour.

Halve eggplant lengthwise and scoop flesh into electric blender cup or food processor fitted with metal chopping blade. Add garlic oil, broth, cream, chiles, and salt. Puree until smooth. Taste for salt and adjust as needed.

Serve soup at room temperature or chill well and serve cold.

NEWS OF HEALTH

Save Lives—Recognize Heart Attack Symptoms

(NAPS)—Your knowledge of heart attack symptoms can save your life or someone else's, and prevent significant heart damage if the heart attack is treated in time.

Quick response is needed. Heart disease is the number-one killer of Americans today; of the approximately 500,000 deaths that occur annually from heart attacks and other coronary heart disease, about half of them occur within the first hour of symptoms.

A new study of more than 2,300 Americans indicates that less than half of people when told the warning signs of a heart attack can accurately identify them as such, and only two-thirds would seek immediate treatment.

Heart attack symptoms

- Sweating, chest discomfort, lightheadedness, faintness, sickness to the stomach, shortness of breath
- Pain spreading to shoulders, neck or arms
- Pressure, fullness, discomfort or squeezing in the chest

"Despite ongoing awareness among the public and professionals, we still have not made enough impact in reducing heart attack treatment time delay over the past decade," said Jo Diehl of the American Heart Association (AHA). The study confirmed people still delay seeking treatment in the event of a heart attack. Most people wait at least two or more hours to seek help after first experiencing the symptoms of a heart attack.

The survey was conducted among individuals who have already suffered one heart attack, those who have been told by a physician they are at risk for a heart attack and the general public.

One-third of those surveyed said they would not seek immediate medical treatment at the onset of actual heart attack symptoms, for reasons ranging from a reluctance to leave work to mistaking the heart attack for another medical condition. Only five percent knew that immediate medication can potentially stop a heart attack.

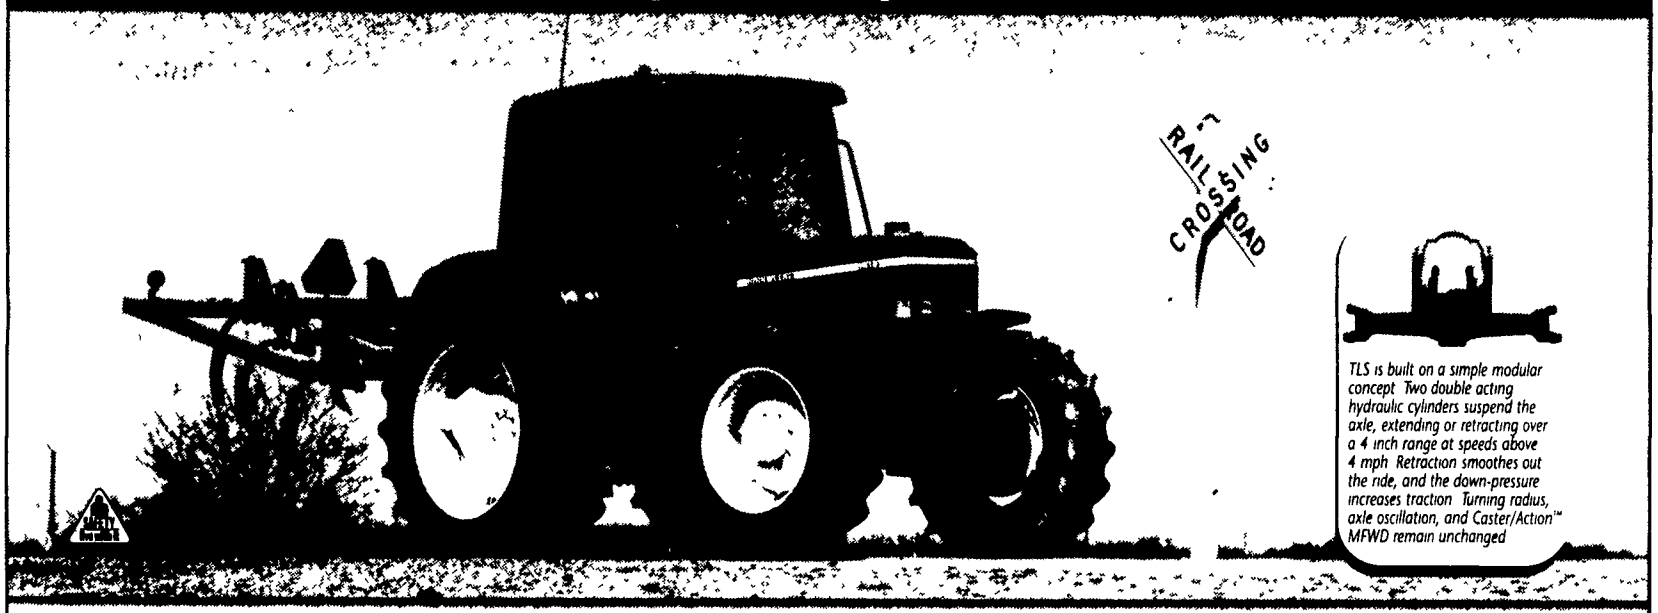
According to researchers, the greatest reductions in death occur among patients who are treated with clot-busting drugs within an hour of symptom onset.

Dr. Eric J. Topol from The Cleveland Clinic Foundation agrees. "If we can decrease the time between heart attack onset and treatment to within one hour, we can reduce deaths by 15 percent."

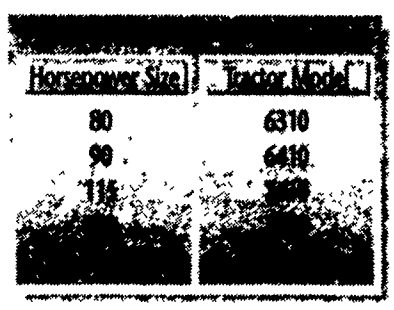
Only 68 percent of those surveyed knew a heart attack begins at the onset of symptoms. A mere one in eight (12 percent) were aware that heart attack symptoms are different in men and women.

The AHA says the key to survival is immediate action If you experience the signs or symptoms of a heart attack or recognize them in another individual, the first step is to call 911 or the emergency number in your area. The survey was sponsored by the AHA and Boehringer Mannheim Corporation, Therapeutics Division.

Exclusive – New John Deere Triple-Link Suspension



TLS is built on a simple modular concept Two double acting hydraulic cylinders suspend the axle, extending or retracting over a 4 inch range at speeds above 4 mph Retraction smoothes out the ride, and the down-pressure increases traction Turning radius, axle oscillation, and Caster/Action™ MFWD remain unchanged



Better traction, faster work, improved ride

The new Triple-Link Suspension (TLS) front axle for the 80-hp 6310 and 90-hp 6410 Tractors gives you improved comfort levels and better MFWD traction. Loader work is much smoother for shuttling over uneven terrain. Round bales seem to float as you move them across bumpy hayfields. And moving loads of sloppy manure or silage is easier, with less spillage.

Here's how it works: Two hydraulic cylinders act as twin shock absorbers to cushion the jolts of fieldwork on the axle. They're double-acting, maintaining constant down-pressure on the front axle and keeping wheels in controlled contact with the ground.

And it's all done automatically, no matter what the load, to reduce hopping, slipping, and surging.

Because the axle is fully suspended, the vibration and vertical forces you feel are cut in half. At highway speeds, road lope is all but gone. You can transport wagons more safely – and work faster with greater productivity.

For better traction, faster work, and an improved ride, see your John Deere dealer about the exclusive, new TLS axle today.

Take advantage of favorable financing offers on new tillage and cultivating equipment, now through November 30, 1998. See your John Deere dealer for details.

Cool Weather Encourages Cabbage Family Growth

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The cabbage family vegetable crops: broccoli, cabbage, cauliflower, collards, and kale prefer cool growing conditions. Thus they do best in the cool conditions of either fall or spring.

In Pennsylvania, broccoli and cauliflower in particular do best in the fall. Growers are just starting to harvest these nutritious vegetable crops that are also believed to help prevent gastrointestinal tract cancers. Cabbage is less sensitive to hot weather and is harvested throughout the summer and fall.

Cabbage by itself ranks as the fifth most important Pennsylvania vegetable crop in terms of acreage. Over 2,000 acres are grown each year and are harvested from late June into December. Pennsylvania ranks 13th in the nation in the production of cabbage.

About 400 acres each of collards and kale are grown along with roughly 350 acres of broccoli and 230 acres of cauliflower. While many growers across the state grow broccoli and cauliflower in small acreages, the production of collards and kale is concentrated among a few growers with large acreages in southeast Pennsylvania.

The cabbage family is also known as the Cruciferae family because their flowers are shaped like a cross According to the Wellness Encyclopedia of Food and Nutrition of the University of California at Berkeley, cruciferous vegetables contain indoles — nitrogen compounds — that seem to protect against cancers of the stomach and large intestine They also are generally high in fiber and antioxidants like vitamin C and carotenoids Antioxidants neutralize the action of free radicals — unstable oxygen molecules — which promote cancer. Cruciferous vegetables also contain compounds that stimulate the release of anticancer enzymes.

Some people object to the odor produced by cooking cruciferous vegetables. The odor is caused by the release of sulfur compounds while these vegetables cook. While boiling cruciferous vegetables in large amounts of water in an open pot will minimize the characteristic strong cabbage taste, it maximizes the loss of nutrients.

Steaming, microwaving or quick cooking in small amounts of water minimizes the nutrient loss in the cooking process. Of course, broccoli, cabbage, and cauliflower can all be enjoyed raw by themselves or in salads.

Dietary experts recommend including cruciferous vegetables in the diet regularly, at least several times a week. They also recommend a daily serving of a vegetable (or fruit) high in vitamin A, one high in vitamin C, and one high in fiber. Broccoli fulfills all three requirements while cabbage and cauliflower fulfill the vitamin C and fiber requirement. The following recipes are 5 ways to include cole crops in your meal:

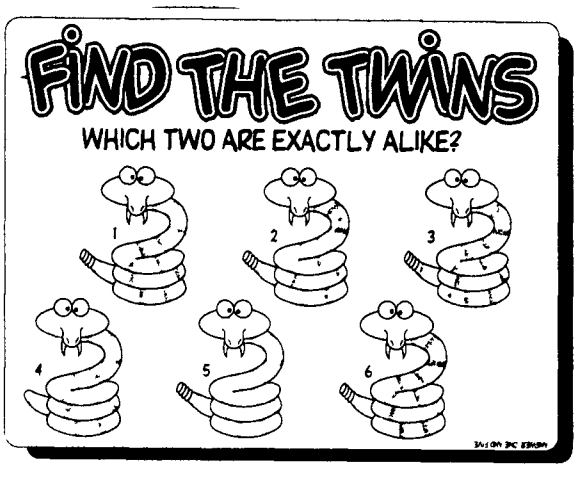
Caught By The Camera At Ephrata Fair

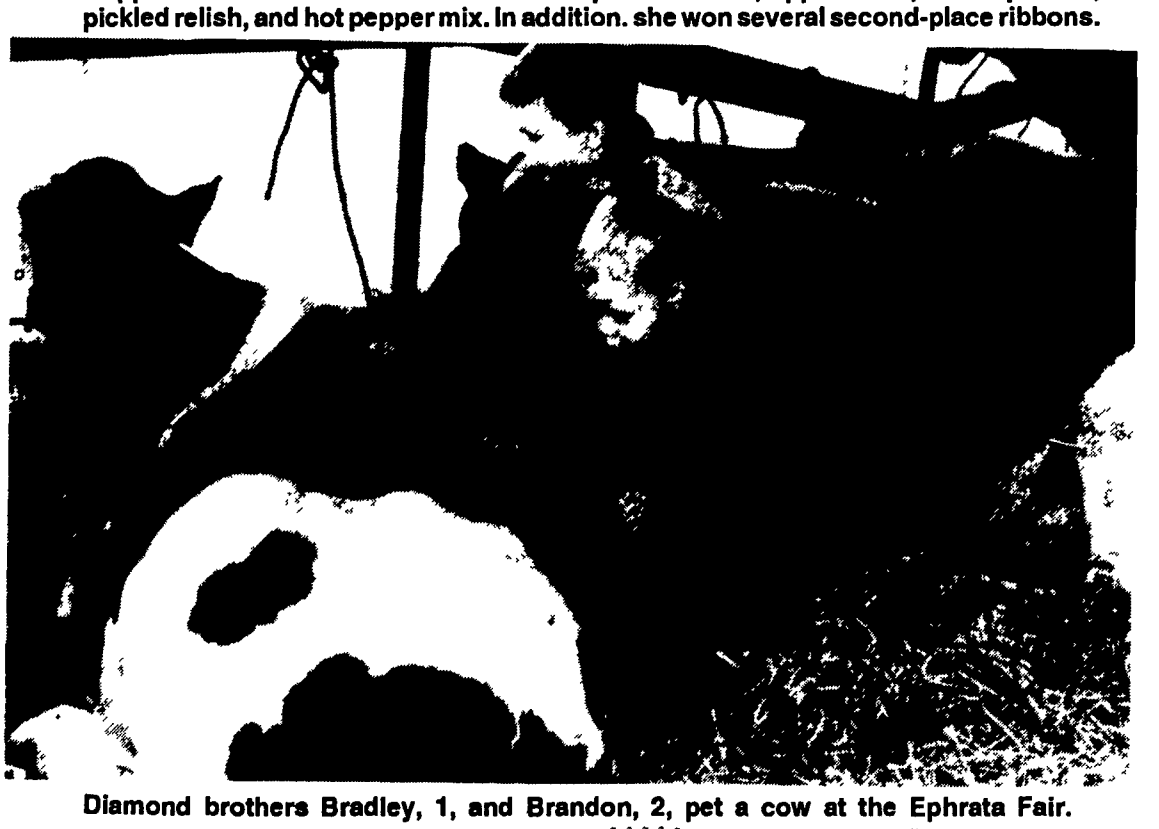
What better place to go than to the fair with Grandpa? Mel Gehman brought his grandchildren Nathan, 3; Preston, 5; and Victoria, 1, to the fair, while their parents Monica and Derick ByDeLey of Palmyra were working.

Cows do more than give milk. Sparkle, a Holstein, provides a comfortable mattress for his mistress Janelle Zimmerman, 12, to relax between showing. Janelle and Sparkle are from a Lebanon County dairy farm operated by Janelle's parents' Calvin and Thelma Zimmerman.

Grandma Florence Kissinger needs her whole family to hold all the blue ribbons she accumulated at Ephrata Fair. Helping her are her daughter and son-in-law Kevin and Deanna Rupp, and grandchildren Derrick, Calvin, Tabby, Monica, and Lawrence Rupp. Florence won blue ribbons for her pickled beets, applesauce, sweet pickles, pickled relish, and hot pepper mix. In addition. she won several second-place ribbons.

The best rides are free at the fair. Here Frank Ackerman, 21 months, and Corey Schmuck, 4, ride farm equipment. Frank is the son of Rose and Kurt Ackerman of Adamstown. Corey is the son of Corey and Deb Schmuck of Hopeland.





Diamond brothers Bradley, 1, and Brandon, 2, pet a cow at the Ephrata Fair.

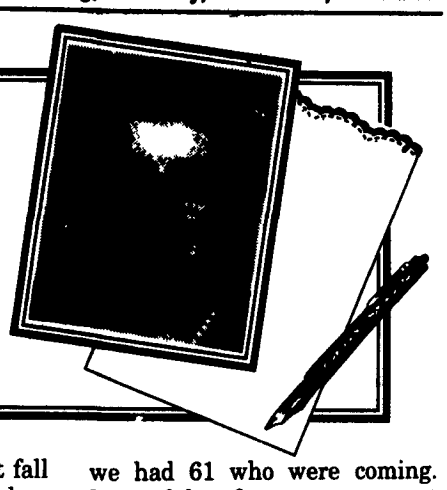
Ida's Notebook

by

Ida Risser



We've got to accept that fall is here when we turn the calendar to October. Now I must seriously consider moving some plants into the house and digging up bulbs to store for the winter.

The past month I have had three different reunions. It is amazing to realize that there are only 43 members of my high school class living out of 72 original members. My class members have been meeting regularly ever other month this year for lunch. So, our big reunion was simply a gathering of old friends.

Allen and I had charge of a "Rural Youth of Lancaster County" picnic. We reserved a pavilion in a community park and engaged a caterer. Our fellow committee members planned games and a program. At first we only had a few paid reservations, but then the last week many people replied and we had 61 who were coming. Most of the afternoon was spent simply visiting and catching up on each other's lives. Health problems are a big concern of many people our age. So there was plenty to talk about as we also bragged about our grandchildren.

The third reunion, if you call it that, was a more intimate gathering. As my sister, who lives in Michigan, was visiting in Lancaster County we five sisters were invited to another sister's home for lunch. the problem was that none of us remembered all of the route numbers to get to another county. Thus, we made a few wrong turns but eventually got there.

We relived old memories—some good and some bad and tired to tell ourselves that we have been good parents. People no longer are as reserved as they were at one time and are freer to show loving emotions.

October Is Chicken Month

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Gov. Tom. Ridge proclaimed October as Chicken Month to recognize Pennsylvania's hardworking individuals who work in the poultry industry, which generates more than $674 million for the state's economy. Industry leaders accepting the proclamation include, from left, Henk Correll, Jr., John Martin, Bill Robinson, Pennsylvania Poultry Federation President Jim Adams, Deputy Secretary of Agriculture Christian Herr, Mickey Baugher, Jim Skinner, Clair Hilsher, Mark Lovette, and Executive Secretary of Penn Ag Industries, Walt Peetchatka. In the proclamation, Ridge recognized the value of chicken as one of the most versatile, economical and nutritious foods that contribute to a healthy, well-balanced diet.

Cook's Question

ANSWER — Madeline VanLeuven, Mantura, N.J., wanted recipes to make small sweet pickles and sliced dill pickles. Thanks to Lois Martin, Bethel, and to Anna Martin, Denver, for submitting recipes.

Sweet Sliced Dill Pickles

Put 1 teaspoon dill seed and ⅛ teaspoon garlic powder in bottom of 1-quart jar. Fill with sliced pickles. Don't slice too thin. Add a pinch of dill seed and garlic powder on top. Fill jars with the following hot liquid:

2 cups vinegar
2 cups water
3 cups sugar
2 tablespoons non-iodized salt

Makes enough liquid for 4 quarts.

Process in boiling water bath just until water begins to boil. Don't over boil or pickles will get soft.

Small Seven-Day Sweet Pickles

7 pounds pickles
1 pint vinegar
1 pint water
8 cups sugar
2 tablespoons non-iodized salt
2 tablespoons mixed pickle spices

First day: Cover pickles with boiling water.

Second day: Drain pickles. Cover pickles with boiling water.

Third day: Drain pickles and cover with boiling water.

Fourth day: Drain pickles and cover with boiling water.

Fifth day: Drain, cut pickles in half-inch rings. Combine vinegar, water, sugar, and salt. Put pickle spices in small bag and add everything together.

Bring liquid to a boil and pour over sliced pickles.

Sixth day: Drain off liquid. Bring to a boil. Pour over cucumbers.

Seventh day: Drain off liquid. Bring to boil. Add pickle slices. Bring to boiling point. Do not boil or pickles will get soft. Pack into jars and seal.

These are crisp and delicious pickles.

Polly's Dill Pickles

Cucumbers
Onions, optional
Dill
2 cups vinegar
2 cups water
¾ cup sugar
2 teaspoons salt

Slice cucumbers lengthwise to fill pint jars. In each jar, place one onion, and 1 spray dill. Combine remaining ingredients and pour over pickles. Seal jars by boiling 5 minutes in boiling water. Recipe makes liquid for six pints. Store in dark place.

ANSWER — Irene Greer wanted the different types of creams such as heavy cream, light cream, and whipping cream, explained. Thanks to Nina Kochmer, Factoryville, who sent in the explanation that appeared in "The Joy of Cooking," p 484, 1964 edition and to Royell Bashore, Lebanon Li'l Dairy Miss for the following explanation.

Heavy cream contains at least 36 percent milkfat. It whips easily and holds its whipped texture longer than light whipping cream.

Light cream, also called coffee cream or table cream, contains at least 18 percent but less than 30 percent milkfat. 1 tablespoon approximately equals 30 calories.

Whipping cream is also called light whipping cream and contains at least 30 percent but not more than 36 percent milkfat. 1 tablespoon equals 45-55 calories.

Half and half is a mixture of milk and cream that contains at least 10.5 percent and not more than 18 percent milkfat. One tablespoon equals approximately 20 calories. Sour cream is a heavy thick mixture made by fermenting cream with harmless bacteria or acidolphis. One tablespoon equals approximately 30 calories but comes in reduced fat varieties.

QUESTION — Richard Kophazy, Moorestownship, wants a recipe for wet-bottom shoo-fly pie with crumbs on top and for apple crisp. Thanks to Anna Joyce Martin, East Earl, and Anna Martin, Denver, for sending recipes.

Shoo Fly Pie

Crumbs:
1 cup flour
⅔ cup brown sugar
1 tablespoon shortening

Filling:
1 cup molasses
1 egg, beaten
¾ cup hot water
1 teaspoon baking soda
¼ cup hot water

Combine ingredients for crumbs and reserve a half cup for the top.

Combine molasses, egg, ¾ cup hot water. Add to crumb mixture. Dissolve baking soda in ¼ cup hot water, add to mixture. Pour into unbaked 9-inch pie shell. Top with a half cup crumbs. Bake 35-40 minutes at 350-375 degrees.

Apple Crisp

8 baking apples
1 cup brown sugar
1 teaspoon cinnamon
¾ cup flour
½ cup butter
½ cup water

Wash, pare, quarter, and core apples. Cut each quarter lengthwise into 3 or 4 slices. Cut sliced apples in bottom of a buttered baking dish. Add water. Combine sugar, cinnamon, and flour, and rub butter into mixture to make crumbs. Spread crumbs over top of apples, putting them down evenly. Bake at 375 degrees for approximately 40 minutes. Leave uncovered. Serve with milk or cream. Serves 6-8.

mal evening balls with guests dressed in gowns and top hats allow visitors to revisit the past.

A Conestoga wagon was also on display, and sitting in front were Tom Grasso and Linda Funk. As members of the Conestoga Area Historical Society, it was their intention to acquaint fairgoers with the society and help them visualize the activities of a bygone era.

A collection of hit-and-miss engines and antique farm equipment was displayed in front of the sheds that housed Grandpa's and Grandma's Old Things.

"Each year we change categories," Jason Miller said of the vintage paraphernalia. This year, canning jars and funnels, berry pails, pie boars, and advertising pencils were featured and prizes given.

According to John McMichael, judges select the winning objects based on condition, rarity, and age.

A crowd favorite is watching one of the hit-and-miss engines used to make homemade ice cream. Actually, the crowd probably enjoys eating ice cream more than watching it being made, but it is one of the fascinating demonstrations that merge the past with the future.

Ephrata Fair is billed as Pennsylvania's largest street fair, but in the park several blocks from the street event is Tent City. This is the big attraction, with animal shows, a petting zoo featuring exotic animals and farm animals. Pygmy goats are a recent addition and a crowd pleaser.

Ephrata held its 25th annual pig race and a rooster chase was held for children under seven years of age.

Squeels, greasy muck, and lots of energy are expended during the pig race.

Secretary of Agriculture Samuel Hayes Jr., left, accompanies Chris Herr, deputy ag secretary, and his son Ryan, 4, to the Ephrata Fair Sheep Show.

Lloyd and Maxine Flory of Lititz follow the fair circuit to watch their grandchildren show sheep. Now in their 70s, the couple recall sheep shows of the past. Maxine had showed the champion market lamb and pen at the state Farm Show for two years. It brings the couple great pleasure and a bit of nervousness to watch their grandchildren Jen and Jimmy Zimmerman carry on the family tradition. "I think I ought to be in there (show ring), telling them what to do," Maxine said of the long wait for the judge's decision.

Tom Grasso admires a restored corn wagon that belongs to the Abram Hess family of Pine View Acres. Lampeter Fair had an extensive display of antique farm equipment, which intrigued fairgoers.

As part of the Conestoga Area Historical Society, Tom Grasso and Linda Funk drew Lampeter fairgoers' attentions. A covered wagon is in the background. Two buildings with displays of Grandma's and Grandpa's Old Things were entered by community members and ribbons were awarded based on rarity, age, and condition.

Best of the Show goes to these pompom dahlias entered by Mervin Weaver and admired by his wife.

Andrew Gerhart, 11, won this lamb from the Lamb and Wool Growers Association. The 2-month-old Hampshire named Lucky ("because I'm lucky to win") helped Andrew clinch a reserve title at the Ephrata Fair. Andrew raises about 25 head Suffolks on the family's Reinhold's farm. Andrew said that he always preferred Suffolks because the breed hold themselves proudly, but since he won the Hampshire, he is impressed with the breed's mellow, friendly disposition. "Whenever I went to the pen, Lucky was always the first to greet me," Andrew said.

Bob VanderPlate and son Jordan, 13, were recruiting for the Civil War Re-enactment Encampment at Lampeter.

Honey bees and plants benefit each other in a special way. Many flowering plants provide nectar and pollen for honey bees. In turn, bees pollinate our commercial fruits, vegetables, and garden plants enabling them to produce fruit like apples, cantaloupe, watermelon and others. Poor pollination causes poor yields and misshapen fruit.

As the Fall temperatures drop below 60° during the day, bees become inactive. A single hone bee makes 12 to 15 visits per day to flowers. Bees collect pollen and or nectar from a wide variety of plants included honeysuckle, clover, and buckwheats.

Pollen and water are essential to bees. Pollen is their only natural source of protein. Without it, colonies could not produce new bees. The hive would eventually die. Nectar is the carbohydrate portion of the honey bee's food and is the raw material of honey.

A beginning beekeeper might ask, what crops or plants specifically attract honey bees? In Pennsylvania beekeepers are largely dependent on cultivated crops grown for other purposes or on wild plants. For example, a vegetable grower gains 25-50% higher yields with bee colonies brought to fields of squash, cucumbers, melons, pumpkins or gourds.

Under certain conditions, gardeners plants good honey plants in their home landscapes to maximize a bees activities. A nectar plant should be no more than 200 to 300 yards from the colony.

Some nectar and pollen producing plants bloom well into the fall. Honey color and flavor are determined by the plant or plants from which the bees collect nectar. To produce honey for your table or the retail market, bees must have access to an abundance of plants. Plants yielding large amounts of nectar are preferred. Major nectar sources include clover, sweet clover, willow, raspberry, maple, golden rod, dandelion and alsikas clover. These sources make a high quality, table grade honey.

Many factors affect a plant's nectar production including fertility, soil moisture, and acidity, altitude, latitude, length of day, the number of hours of sunlight per day, and weather. Bees gathering nectar from several sources, including a variety of wildflowers, produce honey that is usually dark and strong flavored honey. This is generally the case with the fall nectar flow, which usually yields a dark, strong flavored honey. However, this honey is usually suitable for over-wintering bees. Golden rod and asters are two fall-blooming plants that may yield such honey.

Observes bees closely to learn what plants they prefer for collecting nectar and pollen. Keep records of dates when these plants bloom.

Late season bloomers in the garden or in the wild that provide nectar and/or pollen for bees include: alyssum, anise hyssop, aster, sedum 'autumn joy', Joe-pye weed, borage, catmint, chives, garlic chives, goldenrod, Pennsylvania smartweed, hickory, korean euodia, lavender, mallow, oregano, pine, calendula, red cedar, rose perouskia, soybean, sunflower, vernonia, thistle, Queen Anne's lace and others. For a honey plant list, contact the Extension Office.

ANSWER — Margaret Grieff, 458 Seesetown Rd., Sidman, PA 15955, wanted a copy of the poem "Somebody's Mother." Thanks to Pollyanna Eby, Belleville, and numerous others for sending the words.

Somebody's Mother

The woman was old, and ragged, and gray
And bent with the chill of a winter's day;
The streets were white with a recent snow,
And the woman's feet with age were slow.
At the crowded crossing she waited long,
Jostled aside by the careless throng
Of human beings who passed her by,
Unheeding the glance of her anxious eye.
Down the street with laughter and shout,
Glad in the freedom of "school let out,"
Come happy boys, like a flock of sheep,
Hailing the snow piled white and deep;
Past the womans, so old and gray
Hastened the children on their way.
None offered a helping hand to her,
So weak and timid, afraid to stir,
lest the carriage wheels of the horses feet
Should trample her down in the slippery street.
At last came out of the merry troop
The gayest boy of all the group,
He paused beside her and whispered low,
"I'll help you across, if you wish to go."
Her aged hand on his strong young arm
She placed and so without hurt or harm,
he guided the trembling feet along,
Proud that his own were young and strong:
Then back again to his friends he went,
His young heart happy and well content.
"She's somebody's mother, boys, you know,
For all she's aged, and poor, and slow;
And some one, some time, may lend a hand
To help my mother — you understand?—
If ever she's poor, and old, and gray,
And her own dear boy is far away."
"Somebody's mother" bowed low her head,
In her home that night, and the prayer she said
Was: "God, be kind to that noble boy,
Who is somebody's son, and pride, and joy."
Faint was the voice, and worn, and weak,
But the Father hears when his children speak;
Angels caught the faltering word,
And "Somebody's Mother's prayer was heard."

ANSWER — For the reader who wanted to know how to control ants, here is an answer from Elizabeth Beaver, Ringtown.

Long-Term Ant Control Bait

Start by making a one percent boric acid and 20 percent sugar solution by thoroughly dissolving 1 teaspoon boric acid and 6 tablespoons sugar in 2 cups water. Do this in a clear jar so you can see when all the boric acid crystals are dissolved. Soak some cotton balls in this bait solution.

Make bait dispensers out of some old plastic margarine tugs with lids. Punch holes in them so the ants can get inside; then put the cotton balls into the containers and cover them with the lids so the bait won't dry out.

Place the bait containers wherever you see the ants.

Clean the containers and freshen up the bait solution at least once a week.

Be patient! Let those worker ants continually carry boric acid back to feed that ants in the nest.

After a few weeks, reduce the boric acid content to one half percent and use that for long-term control. Using a very low dose makes it more likely that servincing ants will continue eating the bait and taking it back to the nest.

'Zimmermans' Dominate Ephrata Sheep Show's 167 Entries

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

EPHRATA (Lancaster Co.) — Despite 167 competitive entries at the Ephrata Fair Sheep Show last week, the Zimmerman family swept most of the championships.

First, Jennifer Zimmerman won showmanship. Then her brother Jimmy, 14, showed Luke and Duke, twin homebred Hampshires, to capture the grand and reserve championship market lamb titles. In breeding sheep, Jimmy took championships in Cheviot and Hampshire divisions. Jennifer showed both the Southdown and Horned Dorset champions then went on to show the supreme breeding sheep over all sheep with her Southdown ewe, named Alley.

The judge called the ewe, "equisite" and possessing everything desired in the Southdown breed.

The ewe had been purchased at the Ohio Southdown Sale after one of Jennifer's former champion ewes died from birthing complications.

The Zimmermans also had many reserve and first placings in classes with those they selected from the 65 head of Hampshires, Southdowns, Cheviots, and Horned Dorsets raised on their Reinholds farm. They are the children of Jay and JoAnn Zimmerman.

Despite the Zimmerman's overwhelmingly good night, a few choice spots were claimed by non-family Zimmerman members.

Radell Peters, Elizabethtown, showed the champion Polled Dorset ram, which went on to be selected as the reserve champion breeding sheep over all breeds. The Dorset ram, named Aristotle, which means "ultimate," was purchased from Van Beer Farm in Dauphin County last year.

In the non-sale market lambs, Sarah Boyd, Ephrata, showed her undefeated champion heavyweight for the grand champion trophy. The lamb was a previous champion at 4-H Roundup and at the Denver Fair.

"You don't come across one this good often," Sarah's dad said of the champion heavyweight with tremendous length of loin and eye appeal.

Sarah plans to show and sell Jordan at New Holland Fair next week. She'll shed lots of tears, she said, because she has become more attached to this lamb than any others in her many years of showing.

"He's spoiled rotten," Sarah said of the lamb she feeds whoopie pies and candy bars as rewards for winning.

Showing the reserve non-sale market lamb was Ryan Donough, 13. The homebred Suffolk named Murry has tremendous leg developed from running hurdles and long walks at the Donough's Manheim farm. His older brother Travis was won the reserve showmanship title. His younger sister Joelyn Donough showed the champion Oxford breeding sheep.

In Romney breeding sheep, Alexandra Lauffer showed the champion and reserve. Derick Bollinger showed the champion and reserve Shropshires. Andrew Gerhart showed the champion and reserve in the Suffolk classes. Gabriel Bowman showed the champion and reserve in Lincoln and in Other-Natural Colored classes and the Polypay champion and reserve were shown by his sisters Dallassa and Kelsey Bowman respectively. Amy Hains showed a Jacobs' ewe for the championship in the "others" division.

The 10-hour sheep show required Kathryn Gabriel, sheep breeder from Glen Arm, Md. and president of the National Montadale Association, to select champions in showmanship, market, non-sale, breeding, and supreme over all breeds.

"It's never easy to select champions when so many are showing," Gabriel said, but she gave detailed attention to each of the 167 entries and thorough assessments of each breeding sheep.

"I am impressed with how professional the kids are. They have been taught well and their showmanship is really impressive," Gabriel said of the exhibitors.

Lampeter Sheep Show Requires 'Articulate' Showmanship

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

LAMPETER (Lancaster Co.) — When April Leaman clutched trophies for showmanship and the grand champion 4-H market lamb at the Lampeter Fair, her competitors knew she had earned the awards in an unusual and challenging show.

Poised and articulate, April explained the difference between this show and other county shows.

She said, "The difference was in application. Today the judge was testing for knowledge not only manual application.

Lamb exhibitors at the Lampeter Fair Sheep Show were intrigued by the different style of judging done by Barbara Herr Bambury, who owns B&B Sheep with 2,000 commercial ewes in Ohio.

Bambury individually questioned each exhibitor about matters pertaining to sheep care. From their answers during the showmanship competition, Bamburg selected April, who is 15 years old, and Tiffany Dean, 11, and asked impromptu questions, which they needed to answer in the microphone for the audience to hear.

Both girls answered clearly and calmly. April was selected as the champion in showmanship and Tiffany as the reserve showmanship and the champion in fitting.

Bambury said, "One of the aspects of showmanship is public speaking. I think kids should be able to answer questions off the top of their heads. They should know what they are feeding their sheep. They should know how to set up a lamb to show off its best angle."

When the judge asked April to set up her lamb to show off its best angle, she immediately said the lamb's big, heavy, muscular leg was its most outstanding feature and set it up accordingly.

With a practiced eye, Bambury quickly selected the outstanding market lambs in both 4-H and FFA competitions, which are held separately at Lampeter.

From 22 4-H entries, April's homebred lamb, named "Piggy," captured the judge's eye.

"It has thickness throughout, is firm with a square dock and is heavily muscled. When you get your hands on it, you appreciate how it handles," Bambury said.

April and her brother Brad Leaman have been showing in 4-H since they were eight-years-old. Their parents, David and Jackie Leaman, had purchased a few sheep years ago for something pretty to look at and mow the grass on their Willow Street property. When April entered 4-H, the family selected Suffolks, and have continued to upgrade the flock through breeding.

The Leamans are pleased to report that they have never bought a market lamb but always bred their own to show. They also showed champion pairs this year. April and Brad take turns picking the lambs they want to show and split the winnings, except for showmanship, between them.

The championship was a toss-up between April's and Tiffany's market lamb. Tiffany's "stylish" lamb was conditioned just right and handled tremendously, according to Bambury, who expressed disappointment that she could not select two champions.

In FFA competition, Kevin Boyer, 19, showed the champion market lamb, which was the middleweight champion.

"It's ideally conditioned, and puts together the prettiest package," Bambury said of the 20 FFA entries.

The purebred Hampshire was a Dinsmore lamb.

Boyer was 16 years old before he started showing sheep. His sheep raising has influenced him to become a farmer. Since he was graduated from Penn Manor High School, Boyer works full time on a farm and hopes to own his own farm someday.

Bambury has beginning roots in Narvon, Lancaster County. Her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Robert Herr, introduced her and her siblings to sheep showing at a young age. They went on to earn many state championships and several siblings continue to show sheep. Since 1993, B&B has shown the champion market lamb at the Ohio State Fair in addition to hundreds of the lambs they sell throughout the states.

Here is a partial listing of show results:

Judge Barbara Herr Bambury selects April Leaman, right, as champion in showmanship and Tiffany Dean as reserve champion showman and champion fitter. Bambury tested exhibitors' public speaking skills as well as manual application.

With the help of her brother Brad, April Leaman shows off the 4-H champion market lamb, a homebred Suffolk.

RAILROADIANA & HO TRAINS

10 A.M. SATURDAY, OCTOBER 10, 1998

EXHIBITION FRI. EVE. 7-9 P.M. and 8-10 A.M. SATURDAY

RIDGE FIRE COMPANY

ALONG RT. 23, BETWEEN PHOENIXVILLE, PA AND RT. 100

RAILROADIANA IN THE PAVILION – Yes! We have nice lanterns, a great pair of very heavy switch signal stands w/targets and a beautiful brass loco bell w/yoke, but what we really have is an important auction of early papers, RR guides, timetables, PRR calendars & books. Serious stuff, actually, and much of it is in excellent condition. If you like RR history, wonderful books and old photographs, you can find them here. This auction avoids the buyer's premium.

H.O. TRAINS IN THE BLUE ROOM – featuring a couple dozen custom built steam type locos, fresh out of the shop. This auction grew after our list was published, so we have some nice surprises.

More Than 800 Exhibited At State Youth Dairy Show

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Dairy cattle judges at Monday's state Junior Dairy Show at the Farm Show Complex in Harrisburg had nothing but high praise for the quality of dairy cattle exhibited in all of the six recognized breeds.

About 1,200 animals were registered to be exhibited in the annual statewide youth dairy show, with more than 800 actually being exhibited.

The animals exhibited first had to comply with local 4-H or FFA club qualification rules, and then have a local and regional judge qualify their animal as having sufficient quality to be competitive in the state youth breed shows.

Holstein judge Larry Tande of Medford, Minnesota, said he was very impressed at the high quality of animals in the shows, and said those Holsteins exhibited were among some of the best he's seen.

Prior to giving his reasons for placing of a couple of the show's animal-age classes, he requested the audience to applaud in recognition of the outstanding high quality and depth.

While the number of animals judged is fairly well divided between the three judges, judge Tande had quite a job with the number of junior-aged animals per age class being so great that the classes were divided into two, in order to keep the number of animals in the ring being judged manageable. Only the summer yearling and fall yearling classes were kept as single classes. The rest were divided into an "A" class and a "B" class.

Dr. Lee Majeski, of College Park, Md., who judged the Ayrshire and Jersey breeds, commented several times during the show on the high quality of animals exhibited; as did Fowler Branstetter of Edmonton, Kentucky, who judged Milking Shorthorn, Guernsey and Brown Swiss.

GET PRECISE APPLICATION CONTROL

New Holland side-delivery spreaders provide the most material control. Whether you're light top dressing, laying down a heavy layer, or anything in between, the Model 3110 puts the right amount of material right where you need it.

- Handles a wide variety of material – slurry, gutter material, cow manure, even poultry litter
- V-tank design delivers material to the auger fast
- Heavy -duty round-core auger produces less drag
- Double-acting hydraulic cylinder moves auger up and down to keep material flowing
- Hydraulic gate and specially designed expeller give precise application control
- Backed by a 10-year warranty against tank rust-through

Pennsylvania Rural Electric Association Serves 600,000 Residents

The Pennsylvania Rural Electric Association (PREA), based in Harrisburg, Pa., is the service organization for the non-profit, consumer-owned rural electric cooperatives in Pennsylvania and New Jersey. Currently, the 13 co-ops in Pennsylvania and one in new Jersey provide electric service to more than 600,000 rural residents, businesses and industries. Pennsylvania's co-ops own and maintain about 12.5 percent of the electric distribution lines in the state, covering nearly one-third of the Commonwealth's land area in 41 counties. These lines represent one of the largest non-governmental investments in rural infrastructure in the state and are an essential component of business and industry.

PREA's 14-member board of directors — one director elected from each of its member cooperatives — conducts the association's business to best serve the consumers members of the op-ops.

PREA works jointly with Allegheny Electric Cooperative, Inc., a generation and transmission cooperative that provides wholesale power to the 14 co-ops.

HISTORY

As late as the 1930's, only six out of every 100 rural Pennsylvanians knew the miracle of the electric light bulb in their homes, The reason — establishing power companies in Pennsylvania and New Jersey had decided that running electric lines into rural areas would not make them a profit.

As a rule, power companies charged farmers $2,000 to $3,000 per mile to build lines to their homes and then charged electric rates higher than those in the cities. Since the average gross income of a farm family of the period was just $1,800 per year, most couldn't afford electric service.

In many areas, power was not available at any cost. For a time it seemed the profit needs — greed — of stockholder-controlled private power companies would condemn most of Pennsylvania's and New Jersey's rural population to live forever with kerosene lamps and hand pumps.

But rural leaders and a handful of politicians were not ready to accept the status quo. They began working to demonstrate that electric power could be provided to rural areas at a reasonable cost and began developing a business structure to make that delivery possible.

In 1931, New York Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt established the Power authority of the State of New York (PASNY) to develop water power on the St. Lawrence River. PASNY produced the first study on the actual costs of electric distribution and helped demonstrate the practicality of providing electricity to rural area.

The first official federal action in the process leading to rural electrification came in 1933 with the formation of the Tennessee Valley Authority (TVA). The act enabling the TVA authorized the construction of transmission lines to serve farms and small villages "not otherwise supplied with electricity at reasonable rates" and gave preference in the sale of power to "cooperative organizations of citizens or farmers."

In 1935, armed with studies showing both the economic feasibility and the benefits of providing electricity to rural areas, then-President Roosevelt signed an executive order forming the Rural Electrification Administration (REA).

The REA program was initially intended as an inducement to the private power companies to begin serving rural areas. But even with the incentives provided by 2 percent REA loans, the private power suppliers showed little interest in building the necessary lines. By the end of 1935, it was clear that the private power companies weren't serious about acting on the government's offer to electrify the countryside. Most of the loan applications and inquiries REA received came from farm co-ops. REA now realized that farmers and their rural neighbors were willing to take electrification into their own hands on a cooperative basis.

Farmers had long experience with cooperatives. In fact, the co-op was the business structural rural people adopted when confronted with a task too large for any family to handle itself.

It was natural then that rural leaders chose to form another kind of co-op to provide themselves and their neighbors with electricity. Since extending central station electric service required very specialized engineering skills, many in Congress were convinced rural electrification would never be accomplished without REA receiving regular appropriations and full status. So in 1936, one year and 20 days after REA had been created, Congress passed legislation making REA a permanent government agency. In 1939, REA become part of the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

On October 20, 1994, a sweeping reorganization of the Ag Department took place. As a result, after 59 years of existence, REA was officially disbanded. Most REA functions were transferred to a new Rural Utilities Service (RUS).

But the mission of rural electriciation continues. Today, about 1,000 electric cooperatives across the United States provide power to more than 25 million consumer members. Each co-op is a locally owned, taxpaying business incorporated under the laws of its individual state.

Rural electric cooperatives have been delivering low-cost electric service to Pennsylvania and New Jersey rural residents since 1936, when the Steamburg Electric Cooperative Association (later consolidated into Northwestern Rural Electric Cooperative) was established in Erie and Crawford counties.

The 14 rural electric cooperatives that today comprise PREA were organized between 1936 and 1941. By the time the Japanese attacked Pearl Harbor on December 7, 1941, all of them had gone through the pangs of becoming organized, of getting their first loans, of making arrangements for power supply at least on a short-term basis and had begun construction of lines to reach their unserved neighbors.

With the outbreak of WWII, the co-ops realized they need a statewide organization to speak for them as one voice on legislative issues. The co-ops created PREA in February 1942.

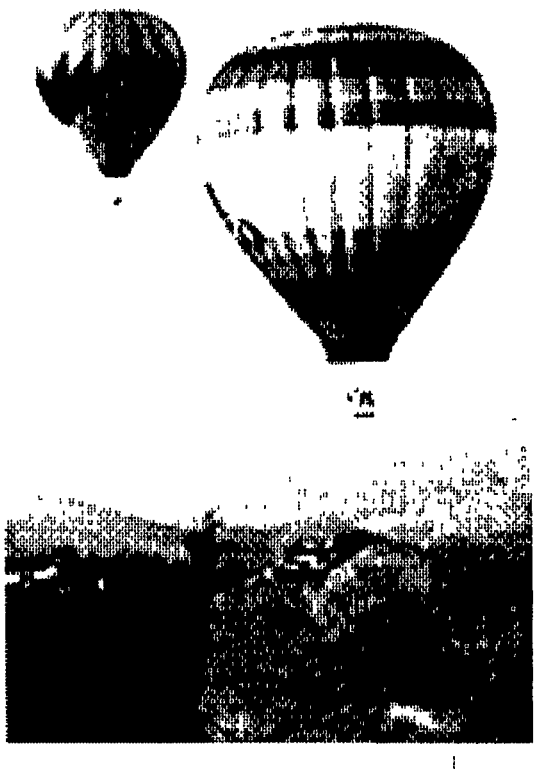
OCTOBER IS CO-OP MONTH

WHEN IT COMES TO DESCRIBING AMERICA'S CO-OPS, THE SKY'S THE LIMIT



The nation's 47,000 co-operatives are big and small. They serve 120 million people in all 50 states. And, they're located everywhere - cities, towns, suburbs and throughout rural America.

Providing goods and services as economically and efficiently as possible is their first order of business. And as locally owned and controlled businesses, co-ops are unique because of their commitment not only to the people they serve but also to their communities.

You'll find co-ops for credit and financing, electric and telephone service, insurance, housing, day care, health care, food, farm marketing and supply, news services, florists and much more.

For years co-op have been expanding horizons for the people they serve. In their own words: "It's just good business, and it works for the benefit of our neighbors, our communities and for our country too."

The Milk Cooperatives serving the dairy farmers in Pennsylvania, Maryland, New York and Virginia are proud to be a part of this great cooperative enterprise.

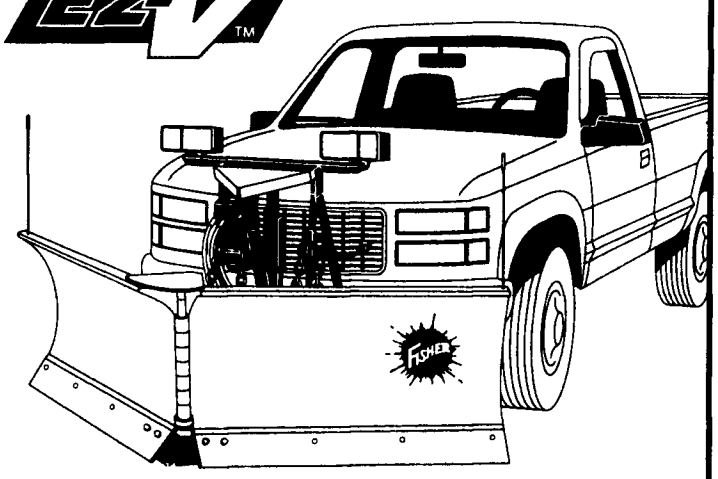
With Fisher's new Minute Mount System most of the snowplow mount is quickly and easily removed from the truck when it's not being used for plowing! By removing most of the plow – every time you're done plowing – you eliminate over 100 lbs of weight on the front end resulting in less wear all year long!

The ATTACHMENT ADVANTAGE

EZ-V™



THREE PLOWS IN ONE!

Break through deep drifts in the "V" position or carry and stack in the "scoop" mode or use this 8½' plow in the straight or angled position for conventional plowing.

All blade functions are right in the palm of your hand with the hand-held FISH-STIK™ control. The Minute Mount System® for easy on/off, trip-edge blade and double acting cylinders, all make the EZ-V plow the ultimate plow for the professional plower.
